East U.S. Lighted By Flare

Rocket Trail Soars High

Washington (AP) — A rocket, carrying a sodium flare was fired from Wallops Island, Va., Wednesday. The rocket reached 150 miles up and lighted a great part of the eastern seaboard.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration launched the rocket at 5:17 P.M. (EST) to take soundings of wind activity in the upper atmosphere..

The two-stage Nike-Asp rocket lifted a 75-pound payload which began ejecting a sodium vapor trail at an altitude of 50 miles.

Peak of 150 Miles

NASA said the vapor trail extended to a peak of 150 miles where it appeared as a cloud as it was dissipated by winds.

"In the evening twilight, it was visible over a wide section of the Atlantic coastline," NASA said.

The shot was visible from Washington, resembling a sunset cloud.

The cloud would hardly have been distinguishable from an ordinary sunset cloud except for its yellow color and rather odd shape.

The 27-foot rocket launched Wednesday weighed 1,550 pounds at takeoff.

BLAZE FINALLY TAMED BY FIREMEN

A fire at 1549 West Van Dorn raged for nearly an hour before firemen brought it under control. The fire cost Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Rhynalds more than $5,000 in losses. (Star Staff Photo)

Parents Were Away

. . Rescue Try Fails

Omaha (AP) — Two children died Wednesday in a fire which swept their Omaha home while their father was shopping and their mother was visiting neighbors.

Killed were Edward Cooperidder, 3, and Shirley Ann Cooperidder, 1.

Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cooperidder and a neighbor Norman Kyle all tried to rescue the children.

Mrs. Cooperidder noticed the fire as she stepped from the home of Kyle. She and Kyle ran to the house, broke open windows and gained entrance.

The suffocated and partially burned bodies of the youngsters were carried from the house by Mrs. Cooperidder, Kyle and Cooperidder, who had also returned home.

Efforts to revive the youngsters failed.

The house was completely gutted by the blaze with only the walls left standing.

Cooperidder said he thought the fire must have started in the kitchen. Fire Chief Eugene Fields said the origin of the blaze has not been determined.

The body of young Edward was found on a bed in the back bedroom, that of young Shirley Ann, on a living room couch. Mrs. Cooperidder suffered severe cuts on the hands and arms from breaking windows.

Fire Takes Family's Stock, Furniture

By Gene Budig

Within an hour, fire robbed Cecil and LaVonne Rhynalds, 1549 West Van Dorn, of more than $5,000 in household furnishings and livestock.

Fire was reported at the Rhynalds' 100 by 35-foot combination barn-storage building at about 5 p.m. Wednesday. Mrs. Rhynalds said that a neighbor first spotted the unruly blaze.

The Lincoln woman told The Star that fire losses include more than 100 chickens, 26 pigs and most of the family's better household furnishings.

To Ground

The building was burned to the ground and little was salvaged.

She explained that she and her husband recently moved from the city to the 3-acre acreage and most of the furniture was still in storage.

No injuries to humans were reported by attending officials.

The exact cause of the fire is unknown, but Mrs. Rhynalds said it was probably started by one of the heat lamps installed for livestock.

Young Pigs

"Most of the pigs were only a couple days old," she said, while looking over the smoldering remains.

Before the fire was brought under control, firemen feared it might spread to the house 50 feet away.

Some 50 persons roamed the premises as 10 city firemen battled the blaze for nearly 50 minutes. Three trucks were summoned to the scene.

Some of the trapped animals were rescued without injury, but Mrs. Rhynalds was unable to give the exact number.

'Feelers' Go To 2 Other Airlines

Possible Substitutes For Frontier Eyed As Result Of Service Cut Plans

By Don Walton

The State Aeronautics Department has dispatched official "feelers" to 3 local service airlines with an eye toward the possibility of attracting them to Nebraska as substitute carriers for Frontier Air Lines, The Star learned Wednesday.

The trio:

North Central Airlines, Minneapolis, Minn.

Ozark Airlines, St. Louis, Central Airlines, Kansas City, Mo., and Ft. Worth, Tex.

Aeronautics Director Jack Obbink said the queries "explained our situation, present conditions, and what we hope to accomplish."

The airlines were asked to reply, Obbink said. He described the messages as "inquiries."

Meanwhile, two other major developments emerged Wednesday from the swirling aftermath of Frontier's announced plans to cut service in Nebraska, effective Jan. 1:

—Gov. Ralph Brooks fired a telegram to the Civil Aeronautics Board in Washington "strenuously protesting" the service curtailment, and pronouncing the situation "urgent and grave."

—Obbink and Rush Clarke of North Platte, special assistant attorney general, hurried preparations for an official protest to the CAB which will come up for discussion at a State Aeronautics Commission session Friday.

13 Towns Affected

Frontier plans to cancel 4 daily round trips, and suspend service on two routes, one of which is the path across northern Nebraska. Thirteen Nebraska communities would be affected by the cut in service.

Suspension of service could not be undertaken without a hearing and CAB approval, but indications are that flight cancellations could go into effect Jan. 1 without prior approval from CAB.

Two of the 3 airlines contacted by Obbink presently serve Nebraska. North Central lands at both Omaha and Norfolk, and Ozark serves Omaha.

All 3 sought to expand their Nebraska operations in presenting testimony during the Seven States Area cease, the decision finally authorizing most extensive service in the state by Frontier.

Each was highly interested

FOREIGN TRADE AWARD GIVEN SAM C. WAUGH

New York — Samuel C. Waugh, president of the Export-Import Bank, Wednesday night was presented with the 1959 Captain Robert Dollar Memorial Award "for distinguished contribution to the advancement of American foreign trade."

The gold plaque was presented at a World Trade Dinner which concluded the 46th national foreign trade convention of the National Foreign Trade Council at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York.

The foreign trade group cited Waugh's service as assistant secretary of state for economic affairs, as deputy undersecretary of state, and as U.S. alternate governor of the International Monetary Fund and International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, and also as chairman or member of delegations to a number of important world economic affairs meetings.

Prior to his government services, Waugh was president of First Trust Co. of Lincoln.

Army 5-Stage Rocket Flops

Washington (AP)—The Army launched a space-probing, 5-stage rocket from Wallops Island, Va., Wednesday night but the third stage failed to ignite.

The rocket only went about 19 miles into the air, instead of the hoped-for 1,200 miles, and fell into the Atlantic about 13 miles east of Wallops instead of the projected 800 miles.

The cause of the malfunction was not immediately determined.

The purpose of the shoot was to obtain data for comparison with results from the Nov. 10 "Strongarm I" daylight firing with respect to the sun's effect on the ionosphere.

WARM TEMPS 'MIGHT' JUST HANG AROUND

Warmer temperatures which were prevalent throughout Nebraska Wednesday are expected to continue through Thursday night, accompanied by cloudy skies.

Highs are predicted to range from the 50s northeast to the 60s southwest.

The state high Wednesday was reported at Imperial with 68. Chadron reported the state low of 12. Lincoln's high and low temperatures were 55 and 25, respectively.

Farm Bureau Setup Will Study New Uses For State Products

By Glenn Kreuscher
Staff Farm Writer

The Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation Wednesday approved organization of a research project, to be financed by voluntary contributions, for study of the use of agricultural products.

The first project to be considered will be the feasibility of making alcohol from agricultural products.

The new move by the Farm Bureau came during the final day of the 41st annual convention as the delegates acted on a long list of resolutions, including reaffirmation of Farm Bureau support for a broadened tax base.

The new research entity was described as an attempt by farmers to do something for themselves. The research work was described as not in competition with any other existing program, but as an attempt to further use of surplus grain.

New Base

The tax resolution adopted by the membership called for replacing property tax as the chief source of state revenue with another tax base incorporating a sales and/or income tax. The resolution urged that special property levies be prohibited.

In a resolution on tax assessment, the Farm Bureau asked that schedules of equal detail be prepared by assessors in co-operation with the state tax commissioner's office giving detail for business and professions equal to that given for farms.

The group also asked that the State Game Commission be elected rather than appointed, because of "the extent of authority granted the State Game Commission and the many areas of activity of this body."

'Pay-As-Go'

Regarding building of Interstate highways the Farm Bureau asks for a "pay-as you-go" policy in the interest of general economy. Their resolution read further, "In spite of the fact that this system was to essentially connect the major cities of the country we believe the intent of this legislation has been altered by allowing construction of the highway through major urban areas in the mid-west."

The farm program came in for discussion on national policy recommendations made to the voting delates on national policy.

Although Farm Bureau members were for price stability in discussing price support resolutions on livestock they could see no acceptable way in which this stability can be achieved through

Woman Gets $33,000 From Damage Suit

A Lancaster District Court jury awarded a $33,000 judgment to Mrs. Joe Gideon of 5110 Hartley for injuries arising from a New Year's Eve auto accident.

The jury rendered a decision against Tom Novak, former University of Nebraska football star, who was driver of the car involved in an accident with the Gideon car near 48th and Cornhusker.

Still pending against Novak are damage suits filed by Gideon in behalf of himself and of his daughter, Michelle, who was also a passenger in the car driven by Gideon.

Novak, who lives at 3500 No. 60th, was named as defendant of the Gideon family damage suits which totaled $130,000.

Ex-GM Chief Kills Friend Accidentally

Walpole Island, Ont. (AP)—Harlow H. Curtice, retired president of General Motors Corp., shot and killed his close friend, Harry W. Anderson, a former GM vice president, in a hunting accident Wednesday. The two men were hunting ducks on Ste. Anne's Island in the St. Clair River between the United States and Canada.

Anderson, 67, who was GM's top negotiator with the United Auto Workers Union for many years, retired as vice president for personnel in 1956. Curtice retired as president in 1958, but is still a GM director.

Provincial Police Constable Bud Collins of Sombra, Ont., said the shooting was an accident and that Curtice is not being held. Collins said he took a brief statement from Curtice but that it is not being released until the investigation is completed.

Curtice told friends, "I am deeply grieved. Harry Anderson was my very dear friend for many years."

Two hunting companions drove Curtice back to Michigan and he went to Anderson's home in Ann Arbor to express his grief to Mrs. Anderson. Curtice looked shocked and exhausted. After visiting the Anderson home, he went to his own home in Flint, Mich.

Police said both Curtice and Anderson prepared to fire as the ducks flew towards their blind and that Anderson stood up suddenly as Curtice fired his 12-gauge shotgun.

Anderson was struck in the side of the head.

Police said the accident occurred about 11 a.m. and they were not informed of the shooting until Anderson's body was brought to the mainland by midafternoon. The island is 30 miles northeast of Detroit.

Curtice and Anderson were frequent hunting and fishing companions.

Berry Purge Hits Last Year's Crop

Washington (AP)—The government moved to seize tainted cranberries from the 1958 crop Wednesday a few hours after the industry insisted that all berries from that year are safe to eat.

Shortly threafter, Secretary of Welfare Arthur S. Flemming gave out word that the whole cranberry situation may be cleared up Thursday.

The tainted berries turned up in Detroit Tuesday. City-county health officials said most of the shipment already has been sold.

The industry had made its safety claim the major basis of a plea that Flemming assure the American public that all cranberry products now on sale are untainted. The contention was that all contaminated berries were from the 1959 crop and could be headed off the market.

Meanwhile, the Army said it has ordered that no cranberries be served to its troops anywhere in the world at messes or sold at Army commisaries.

The tainted 1958 cranberries, the Welfare Department announced, came from Massachusetts, which produces about half the U.S. crop. These were the first contaminated berries reported from that state.

Garden State Alone

Previously cranberries declared suspect had been traced to Wisconsin, Oregon and Washington. This left only New Jersey among the big producing states as free of rejected berries.

The Welfare Department announced also a third seizure action against 1959 Wisconsin berries. This involved 87 cases of 24 one-pound bags of fresh berries shipped from Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., to Waterloo, Iowa, on Nov. 5.

The action against Massachusetts-grown berries, the department said, involves what remains of a 1958 pack of canned cranberry sauce shipped on Oct. 20, 1958, from Bridgeton, N.J., to Detroit. It consisted of 29 cases, each containing 24 No. 1 sized cans.

Catholic School Has 'Flu Holiday'

Pupils at Holy Family school at 37th and Sheridan have been granted an extra vacation for Thursday and Friday. But about half of them won't enjoy it much.

That's the word from school officials, who said that absences at the school have been high because of a "flu bug." Officials said that the "holiday" was declared to prevent more pupils from "catching" the bug.

Officials at the Lincoln Public Schools office, however, say that they haven't received reports of an unusual number of absences.

Children's Zoo Plans Prehistoric 'Stegosaurus'

This Stegosaurus, with spurting fountains for ribs, will stand in a pool in the proposed Children's Zoo to shown Lincoln youngsters the typical animals that roamed Nebraska plains millions of years ago. It is one of 25 projects proposed by the Lincoln Children's Zoo Association. (Story on Page 2.)

Children's Zoo, With Pet-And-Feed Pens And Fantasy Buildings May Be Begun By Summer

By Virgil Falloon

Preliminary plans for Children's Zoo with pet-and-feed animal pens, fantasy-like buildings, and a birthday party area were enthusiastically viewed Thursday by the Lincoln Children's Zoo Association directors.

President Arnott Folsom said efforts to raise $125,000 for its construction are already underway. It is hoped that zoo can be under full construction by next summer, he added.

Various themes have been used for children's zoos, Architect L. A. Enerson told the group, but Lincoln's zoo will reflect its Nebraska setting.

To recapture the prehistoric animals that once roamed Nebraska plains, a 40-foot-long Stegosaurus is planned in a fountain and pool setting.

Goats, Sheep

Children-size farm buildings will house some of the pet-and-feed animals such as young goats, sheep, calves, and pigs.

There will be an animal compound where the children can mingle with such animals as baby llamas, peacocks, ducks, bantams, a giant-land turtle, on which children can ride, pet skunks, and others.

Indicated for the birthday party area (which mother can use for junior's party at a small charge) is a Western Town setting, complete with jail, livery-barn, Boot Hill cemetery, (complete with prairie-dogs), bird-cage theater, and trading post.

There will be walk-through bird cages and an underground tunnel for burrowing animals, a monkey island, possibly a seal pool, and other exhibits including a mouse house.

Antelope Park Site

The proposed zoo would be located on a 3-acre tract in Antelope Park between A and C streets and east of the Rock Island tracks.

Folson said $10,000, including $5,000 worth of fencing, has already been received as gifts for the zoo. The association also expressed appreciation for the Lincoln Centennial's gift that will be $4,500 to $5,500. The City Council has earmarked $9,500 in the budget toward the children's zoo site.

Park Supt. James Ager noted that the zoo is not included in the proposed $3.1 million development program.

Construction and operation of the children's zoo will be assumed by the non-profit association.

Folsom said the 3-acre tract, compared with 1.5 acres for some children's zoos, will give "plenty of elbow room for future expansion."

Charge Planned

In addition to donations for the construction, the zoo's operation will be sustained by a small admission charge and memberships in the Association.

The children's zoo will be supervised. College students who have shown a definite interest in this work during the summer months, will be employed plus volunteers in the 16-and-17-age groups.

Folsom said that several individuals have already expressed interest in donating the funds for several of the exhibits.

Gifts of specific items are being accepted, he said, as well as contributions for the overall financing.

'Feelers' Go To 3 Airlines

in serving the lucrative Denver-Omaha, and Omaha-Kansas City routes.

None proposed service over the northern route, but CAB policy has held that local service air lines—which are highly subsidized with federal funds—must serve lean routes in order to receive permission to operate the lucrative routes.

North Central, which serves Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Nebraska, proposed 7-States service to Omaha, Alliance, Scottsbluff, Norfolk, Lincoln, Hastings, Kearney, McCook and Beatrice.

It also indicated interest in serving south to Falls City.

Ozark, which operates in Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Minnesota, Tennessee, Wisconsin, Iowa, Kansas, South Dakota and Nebraska, offered in 7-States testimony to serve Omaha, Beatrice, Lincoln, Alliance, Grand Island, Hastings, North Platte, McCook, Sidney and Scottsbluff.

Central, operating in Oklahoma, Texas, Kansas and Missouri, proposed 7-States service to Omaha, Lincoln, Beatrice, Grand Island, Kearney, North Platte, McCook and Scottsbluff.

Kansas Link Asked

The airline has particularly sought to connect Omaha and Lincoln with Kansas communities in testimony before the CAB in the separate Kansas-Oklahoma Case, in which there has thus far been no final determination.

Central, Frontier and Ozark are participants in the Kansas-Oklahoma Case.

The governor's terse telegram to James R. Durfee, CAB chairman read, in part: ". . . . I strenuously protest the suspension of service announced Nov. 16 by Frontier Airlines.

"This arbitrary action completely violates the intent of the CAB in issuing a certificate of authority for local air line service.

'Deterred Use'

"Further, the action of Frontier Airlines in this and other particulars has deterred the use of local air carrier service by antagonizing potential users not only along the routes in question, but in other areas of Nebraska now expressing alarm at the possibility of similar action by Frontier Airlines in those portions of our state.

"Nebraska insists upon a full hearing at which all pertinent evidence concerning allegedly poor traffic showing can be presented.

"Nebraska joins me in an expression of alarm at your reported condonation of this suspension of service without an adequate hearing and before all facts have been placed before you."

Meanwhile, Frontier President Lewis B. Maytag Jr., said in Denver that his airline's primary purpose is for short haul service, denying charges that he is only interested in long, lucrative hauls.

Missile Subs Said Potent

Los Angeles (AP)—Adm. Arleigh Burke said Wednesday night that about 45 Polaris missile submarines, the kind the Navy is building, "will be able to clobber any aggressor who would dare attack us."

The chief of naval operations, in a speech before a meeting of the National Security Industrial Assn., declared that:

With the Polaris in the nation's arsenal of retaliatory weapons "we do not have to keep piling missile on missile just to make sure that some missiles would survive an armed attack."

Polaris missile submarines will be highly invulnerable because they can hide in the sea, Burke argued, so "we can depend on almost all of them surviving a surprise attack." For that reason, he said, "we won't need many."

Russ Threat Under Water

Washington (AP) — The U. S. admiral who commands NATO forces in the Atlantic said Wednesday Soviet missile-firing submarines will be a significant threat to nations of the Western alliance within a year.

Adm. Jerauld Wright predicted that by 1963 the threat will become serious as Russia's fleet of ballistic missile submarines grows.

Mac, Konrad Improve Ties

London (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer Wednesday night patched up some of the political differences between Britain and West Germany.

In secret negotiations, Macmillan first abandoned his pet plan for an experimental disarmament zone in Central Europe. That plan has been endorsed by Soviet Premier Khrushchev but assailed by the West Germans.

Adenauer in turn outlined a compromise deal designed to help Britain's trade and political relations with its West European allies.

He assured Macmillan that the "Little Europe" bloc would follow liberal trading policies with Britain and its partners in the rival economic group dubbed the "Outer Seven."

Churchill Better, Meets Adenauer

London (UPI)—Sir Winston Churchill recovered sufficiently from a chest ailment Wednesday to discuss politics with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer over tea.

Adenauer, 83, in Britain on a state visit, went to Churchill's London home and spent 43 minutes with the 84-year-old British statesman.

Humphrey Plans Nebraska Swing

Washington — Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota will visit Nebraska again Dec. 12 on a new, 11-state, pre-Christmas swing through the East, Midwest and South, it was announced Wednesday.

Humphrey will speak at a Second Congressional District workshop in Omaha.

He'll be in Illinois the day before, in Iowa the day after.

Among other states Humphrey will visit next month are Florida, Texas, New York, Connecticut, Kansas, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

price support or other direct or indirect government programs.

"Multiple price proposals, production or deficiency payments do not appear to be the answer to the farm program," according to Farm Bureau resolution action.

Farm Bureau resolutions could see no future in extending the present program for wheat from the standpoint of traditional producers who have unusual ability to produce this crop and whose resources have so few alternative uses.

According to action by the Farm Bureau, any program which accumulates excessive surpluses in the hands of the government, is not in the interest of agricultural people economically.

Market Average

Therefore, it was recommended to voting delegates that relating price support levels to an average of farm market prices over a recent period of a few years is a more appropriate basis for determining price support levels.

Officers elected were Charles Marshall of Lincoln, president; Roland Nelson of Mead, vice-president and Robert R. Thompson of Lincoln, secretary treasurer.

Marshall

Other officers elected were: woman at-large, Mrs. Leslie Elrod of Kimball; youth at large, Paul Mierhenry of Pierce; District 4 director, Mrs. Karl Brinkman of Geneva; District 6 director, Orel Kroelling of Ord.

Farm Bureau members acted on 47 state resolutions and 37 proposals to the voting members on National Policy.

Other state resolutions included:

Reorganization of Administration of State Government: Members considered the creation of a committee of the Legislative Council to study reorganization of state government to be a proper step.

Social Responsibilities: This dealt with a request for strengthening security measures to guard against escapes from penal and mental institutions.

The better enforcement of present provisions of the law regarding sex offenses.

Encourage assistance in efforts to stamp out the public nuisance of obscene material that continues to be wide-spread among our youth.

The broadened use of agricultural products in industrial uses received favorable comment among farmers both in Farm Bureau meetings and in visits at the convention.

Ousted Scales Chief Charged In N.Y. Meat Racket

New York (UPI) — An ousted city official hired by Mayor William O'Dwyer 13 years ago was charged Wednesday with extorting "payola" from butchers in a multi-million dollar meat racket that victimized housewives in poor neighborhoods.

WIREPHOTO
FRED J. LOUGHRAN

Fred J. Loughran, 47, director of the Bureau of Weights and Measures, was arrested as a result of a 7-week investigation of illicit butcher shop operations in depressed areas.

The racket included upgrading of meat meant for dogs to "prime," falsifying weights, and payoffs by butchers to city inspectors in return for looking the other way or levying meager fines of only $3 to $5 instead of the $60 to $100 allowed by law.

Racket Buster Tag

Loughran, who gained a reputation as a racket buster in his city post, testified before a grand jury earlier that he never had accepted one dime illegally while heading the bureau.

A short time later, he was fired by Mayor Robert F. Wagner.

Brooklyn District Attorney Edward S. Silver announced after Loughran's arrest that the case against the ousted official would be presented to the grand jury Thursday, with a view to an indictment.

The arrest came despite Loughran's insistence that "All I know is what I have read in the newspapers. I know of no ring. I never ordered any inspector to stay out of a store.

"I have never accepted 10 cents. In fact, I never accepted anything to instruct anyone to do anything illegal. I will be willing to say this under oath."

MATS Team Sets Briefing For Dec. 2

Col. Miles W. Johnston, commander of the Lincoln Air Force Reserve unit, has announced that a team of experts of the Military Air Transport Service will conduct a special "Command Briefing" Dec. 2 from 7:30 to 10 p.m. at the University of Nebraska Love Library.

The program will contain aspects of communications and transportation systems which are available to connect the vast network of air bases which function in the interest of national security.

All interested citizens were invited to attend.

Deputies Probing Break-In Reports

Sheriff's deputies are investigating two West Lincoln break-ins in which a car, TV and other household and car accessories were taken.

Reported missing from the Good Motor Sales, 700 Oak, were a TV set, a typewriter and a radio valued at $80 and a 1951 sedan. The company office had been broken into and the car keys taken, deputies said.

At the Drummond DX Station, 710 Grand, deputies were told that the cigaret machine had been opened and several tires were apparently missing along with other accessories.

Women Hold Key To 1960 Elections, GOP Leader Says

By Don Walton

"Women hold the key to the 1960 elections," the vibrant assistant chairman of the Republican National Committee and its director of women's activities told newsmen in Lincoln Wednesday.

Then, Mrs. Clare Williams of St. Petersburg, Fla. — a sort of political Celeste Holm —set out to prove it.

"There are 5 million more women of voting age than men," Mrs. Williams pointed out. Further, 52% of the 1952 presidential voters were women. The percentage was even higher in 1956; it is expected to reach 54% in 1960.

Women also play an influential role in determining how their husbands vote, Mrs. Williams suggested, because "they have more time to participate in politics, to meet the candidates, and then inform their husbands."

Mrs. Williams is currently on a national tour aimed at holding control of 61 marginal Republican seats in the House of Representatives, and wresting control of 45 marginal Democratic seats.

Marginal seats are those which are held by a plurality of less than 5,000 votes.

The assistant chairman's 4-day swing through Nebraska takes her through 3 such congressional districts, those held by Democrats Don McGinley and Larry Brock, and Republican Phil Weaver.

How does it look for Republicans in Nebraska?

"There's been a change in the tide nationally," Mrs. Williams said. "We find it here in Nebraska in the form of increased enthusiasm and a new comprehension of the Republican program."

Predictions Dodged

The Floridian dodged all queries as to who might be named to the 1960 GOP national ticket.

"We (the National Committee) are bending over backward to keep this a wide-open convention," Mrs. Williams noted. "As assistant chairman, I am completely neutral."

The committee, she pointed out with a gleam in her eye, has reserved 7 hotel suites in Chicago for "presidential aspirants."

Questioned about the possibility that Nebraska Fred Seaton, secretary of the interior, might be nominated for the vice presidential spot, Mrs. Williams said:

"That is much talked of. Mr. Seaton is well thought of over the country. His prestige and ability are well-recognized."

Sees Adlai For Demos

The nation's top Republican woman then named two-time presidential candidate Adlai Stevenson as the probable Democratic nominee.

Republicans, Mrs. Williams said, hope to pick up 5 or 6 Senate seats in the 1960 struggle, including ones in Montana, Wyoming and Illinois.

In addition, she noted, the party will make "an all-out effort to hold Sen. (Carl) Curtis' seat" from Nebraska.

Will there ever be a woman on the national ticket?

"Yes. But, not for a long time," Mrs. Williams said.

The assistant chairman visited the University of Nebraska Wednesday afternoon and conducted a workshop following a dollar sandwich supper at Pershing Auditorium in the evening

GOP Warned To 'Get Going' In Fund Quota

Nebraska Republicans have contributed only 14.8% of their national quota of $38,500 for 1959, State Finance Chairman John Cooper of Humboldt reported Wednesday.

Only the states of Mississippi, Louisiana, Maine, Kansas and Oregon rate below Nebraska in percentage thus far contributed.

"We, as well as our delegates to the national convention next year, are going to be in relatively poor standing," Cooper warned in a letter to GOP contributors.

"The consequence is that they cannot have a very strong voice in those proceedings."

Cooper also pointed out that "we would be out of operation" in the state if the Lancaster County fund-raising dinner featuring National Chairman Thruston Morton had not been so successful.

Only 5 (Grant, Wayne, Valley, Webster and Colfax) counties have met their state quotas thus far this year, Cooper noted.

"We can procrastinate on our 1959 obligations no longer if we are to win next year," Cooper warned.

828 Crowd Sees 'Most Happy Fella'

A sparse crowd of 828 persons attended the Wednesday evening performance of "The Most Happy Fella," at Pershing Municipal Auditorium.

The presentation here was the only Nebraska appearance of the Frank Loesser musical.

Starring in the show were Richard Wentworth, Carolyn Maye and Lawrence Brooks.

Pot And The Kettle

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The longer the Interstate Highway is discussed, the more people get into the act—a number of whom we fail to see any reason for being there or who lack support for their position. For one, we fail to see what former Gov. Victor E. Anderson is getting at in his statement about federal funds being the same today as they were in the past.

The former GOP governor is in the position of the pot which called the kettle black.

Broad Hint of Shadiness

He says that Interstate funds have not been cut from $47 million to $15,300,000 through fiscal 1961 as has been reported. He didn't say who "reported" this but it is clear that he intends to give the impression that Democratic Gov. Ralph Brooks is pulling a fast one — fallaciously citing a two-thirds cut in federal Interstate funds. If the former governor wants to give a "factual" report, as he termed it, let him do so but we won't subscribe to any half-truths such as this.

The facts are that federal officials in Washington reported Oct. 11, 1959 that the state of Nebraska would have a total of $26,318,940 available for Interstate work through fiscal 1961. On Oct. 8, 1959 the Associated Press reported that the federal government gave the green light to Nebraska's spending $15,324,000 on the Interstate for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1960.

The AP further reported that this represented less than one-third of the accumulated $47 million which has been apportioned to the state but not used in prior years when it was available. We defy Anderson to produce evidence of the fact that the Brooks administration has had anything to do with erroneous reports of Interstate funds available.

Furthermore, Anderson speaks of an additional $18 million in funds approved for Nebraska spending which is no result of the Brooks' administration. However, he fails to show that the GOP period can claim any credit for this and we doubt the existance of any such credit. The $15,300,000 Anderson referred to was at one time considered the 1959-60 fiscal year allocation but never considered the allocation through June, 1961 as Anderson indicated in his "factual" statement.

And so long as he has decided to enter the picture, the former governor might explain why Nebraska accumulated this backlog of $47 million in the first place. It was accumulated primarily during his time in office, not Brooks', so who is at fault if any part of it is lost at this late date? The past record also shows that there was considerable uncertainty during the last days of Anderson's term in office over the availability of federal funds. This somewhat belittles the certainty and assurance with which he speaks now.

The point of all this is not that Anderson necessarily did anything wrong in handling the Interstate while he was in office but he is out of order in coming out at this time in an attempt to smear things for his successor. His Interstate record is certainly no better than Brooks' and the matter of total amount of funds available is not even in question at this time.

The only excuse for attempting to inject it that we can see is for political reasons. The other group which entered the picture in an active way was the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce through Vice President Dr. Norman Carlson. The Chamber should certainly be concerned in this matter of transfer of funds but it should wait until it has the facts before it takes action.

We would like to see the Chamber's facts in support of spending $2.7 million in planning for the Grand Island-to-Lincoln leg of the Interstate. Would the Chamber rather see these funds lapse, for instance, than be spent in Omaha? They should find out first if it is physically possible for the state to spend the Lincoln-Grand-Island money before it does lapse. Also, they might find out first if additional funds will become available for the Lincoln-Grand-Island segment before the work could be undertaken.

Determining The Facts

If this is possible, there would be no loss sustained by transfer of the $2.7 to Omaha at this time. In fact, a transfer under such circumstances would be highly advisable. Where Gov. Brooks is wrong in this matter, he has and should be taken to task, but there always seems to be a wolf pack around which wants to distort things clear out of proportion.

Two More About To Blow

It Was 96 Years Ago

Ninety-six years ago today Abraham Lincoln the President of the United States arose from his seat in the temporary platform on Cemetery hill on the Gettysburg battlefield and delivered what we now know as the Gettysburg address.

The occasion was the dedication of the ground as a Pennsylvania state cemetery where the fiercest assault had taken place the previous July in a three-day battle that tested the Confederacy's capacity to invade the North and found it wanting. Even as the President talked, and his audience of several thousand listened, wreckage of the great battle and evidence of the terribly bloody encounter still marked the place, even to the scattered, shallow unmarked graves. It is doubtful that many of the living comprehended the depth and significance of the occasion, for the battle was still too fresh to take on the true mantle of historic meaning. No doubt there was a spirit of thanksgiving, a sense of liberation and a certain pride of victory. But those were emotions of the moment.

But in spite of the formal observance and the two hour address by Dr. Edward Everett, the nation's greatest speaker, Gettysburg would have continued to be a battlefield remembered because of fascination for war and its record of valor and bloodshed, such as Sharpsburg, Fredricksburg, Manassas and Missionary Ridge.

It remained for Lincoln's brief utterance to summarize the American cause. He said in effect that after all of the time of man, a group of people had resolved to create a new society in which accepted oppression and caste were to be replaced by liberty, and the proposition that all men are created equal. It was an experiment of which many despaired and in truth after only 87 years its practicability was in a life and death test—a most ideal, yet a most unproven adventure.

Where others that day saw tragedy and the evidence of feats of arms, Lincoln felt an ineffable gratitude that the noble experiment was not a piece of philosophical politics, but a thing that had taken full root in the hearts of the people, even beyond the desire for life itself, and that it would not die.

Americans still live by that discovery. And that is why Lincoln walks among us as though he were still living.

Ike And Harry Paired

While it is within the realm of possibility, it is almost unbelievable that President Eisenhower and former President Truman would be paired up on any world goodwill tour. After the years of bitterness between the two, this would certainly be an unprecedented move. But the idea of such a pairing contains a great deal of merit.

It would not necessarily have to be a combination of the presidents to achieve the desired results. The important thing would be that this nation impress upon the world the fact that this nation is not divided by political parties. Our two-party system does not represent a pulling apart, but rather, a unified independence which is unequalled in any other nation.

It should not be forgotten, particularly in international affairs, that both our major political parties are devoted to the greater welfare of all the people of the United States. A Republican president, for instance, is not just concerned with peace and prosperity for his GOP followers but wants the same things for members of the opposite party. The same thing is true in the case of a Democratic president.

This is the thing which many other countries find so difficult to understand about the United States. They feel a sense of insecurity in dealing with President Eisenhower because they know he has but little time in office left. They know that in 1960 the American people will elect a new president and perhaps even one of a different political party.

Anything which would tend to impress upon the people of other nations the fact that America basically stands for certain principles and will never falter in her pursuit of them would be a worthwhile effort. The lack of such a conviction in the minds of the rest of the world is one of the major obstacles faced by the United States in the field of foreign affairs.

The Free And The Free

The Russian press, to hear the Kremlin tell it, is truly the only free press in the world. It is so because it devotes its entire effort to helping the government, which, of course, is working like fury for freedom. If the press ever became critical or questioning it would not be free, but rather obstructing freedom.

Now there is logic for you. It is the sort of free speech that permits one to go the utmost in saying favorable things about approved subjects. It is also a very easy course to follow. All things that aren't officially stated are rumor, and factual or unfactual, rumor is not to be published.

It is sometimes dismaying in this benighted country, where all sides get a hearing, to pick up the daily paper and read pronouncements that reflect bad logic, no supporting evidence, or even self-interest. But it is still an accepted principle that it is up to the citizen to hear all the testimony. The right to sift the good from the poor remains with the citizen reader. It is based on the presumption that the average man will fit himself for the job of competent judge. This may appear improper and dangerous to Russian thinking, but it is significant that America has become one of the powerful nations of history with an unusually advanced social system. It is also significant that the great communist goal is that of catching up or possibly passing America.

But there may be a flaw in Russia's free press. Premier Khrushchev had some sharp criticism for the congress of Soviet journalists at Moscow. He told the Russian press it was tedious and dull and too generally unread. In contrast, he said, he himself could learn more about America by consulting America newspapers, and learn more about other things, too.

Food And Drug Act Under Fire

WASHINGTON — There's certain to be a battle of the housewives vs. the food and drug lobbyists in the next Congress.

Lobbyists for some of the most powerful food, farm, and cosmetic industries are already planning an astute battle to amend the Food and Drug Act. They want to protect the use of coal tars in lipsticks, cattle feeding additives, and weed-killers in connection with such things as cranberries. Specifically they have their guns trained on the "Delaney Amendment" which forbids the use of any chemical if it induces cancer in animals.

This amendment was put across in the revised Food and Drug Act by Congressman James Delaney, Long Island Democrat, with the help of Congressmen Leo O'Brien and Isidore Dollinger, also New York Democrats. The revised act gave the Food and Drug Administration the right to bar certain foods, drugs and chemicals immediately, instead of struggling through two years of laboratory experiments and court hearings as in the past.

What has worried cancer experts is the alarming jump in cancer cases in the United States as compared with more backward countries and as compared with the United States of some years ago. The use of modern sprays, weed-killers, preservatives, and additives has been suspected.

After lengthy testimony from all sorts of doctors, the congressmen found that, in preventing cancer, "the cumulative effects of additives in the diet of man or animals over their life spans" must be considered. In other words, some additives may be quite safe alone, but produce cancer when combined with other additives. And it may take 20 or more years before the cumulative effects of these additives result in malignant growths, congressional hearings showed.

Some critics of the ban on weed - killer - contaminated cranberries point out that the cancer induced in rats does not mean that cranberries would induce cancer in man. On this point, the House Commerce Committee observed:

"To determine the ability of a new chemical to induce cancer in human beings would require a generation of observation. For this reason, animals that have shorter life spans are used . . . in human beings, chemical-induced cancers may not appear until 20, 30, or even more years after the first exposure.

"Carcinogens (cancer-inducing chemicals) have the unusual property of inducing irreversible changes in living cells," the congressional committee found, "so that the cells slowly progress to cancer long after treatment with the chemical is stopped.

"For this reason," Congress found, "a carcinogen introduced into the nation's food supply tomorrow, could, even though subsequently reconsidered and withdrawn, induce cancer many years later in individuals who consumed it."

ED KOTERBA

Rocketry Is Ripe Field For Experts

WASHINGTON — I had my moment of glory at the 14th annual meeting of the American Rocket Society. I wandered into one of the back rooms of the Sheraton-Park hotel, where the rocketeers are conventioning, and somebody almost stole me. They thought I was an engineer.

What I blundered into was one of the greatest waves of mass kidnaping in industrial history. It's legal kidnaping—some folks call it cannibalism or body snatching—but it's enough to put some employment managers into a horrid orbit.

Out in the lobby, in the open, our great space aces from every part of the country cooperatively exchanged ideas and swapped pleasantries. Out there in the lobby they don't talk about the "back rooms."

But you detect subtle hints, like glaring little cards dropped carefully in front of you at the lobby telephones that state: "Would you like to make $20,000 a year? Then come see us."

☆ ☆ ☆

And in the back room they wait, usually in pairs, for the restless fly in quest of sweet honey in greener pastures.

The instant I slipped into this one particular recruiting room I was king. "Have a cigar?" "What can we fix you to drink?" "Dinner tonight?"

I replied happily, "Gee, thanks, fellows, yes, I will . . . I'm a newspaperman." And you should have seen their jaws drop. One of them said woodenly, "Is there anything we can do for you?" My moment of glory shattered like an aborted rocket.

Some recruiters, frankly, are frank about their main problem: They can't find enough men to fill jobs paying from $10,000-a-year and up.

☆ ☆ ☆

David Potter, scientific placement manager of the Glenn L. Martin plant in Denver, said he could hire 35 to 40 men right now to work on the Titan missile. Applied research scientists, he called them, with salaries ranging up to $17,000 a year. Pickin's were slim. A few years before Sputnik went up this type of scientist was scratching around for a job paying $250 a month.

Ed Wright, recruiter for the Arma division of the American Bosch Arma Corp., of Garden City, L.I., said his company employs 1,500 engineers and scientists. They make things like guidance systems for the Atlas Missile. But they're looking for 300 more at salaries averaging $10,000 a year. (a kid fresh out of engineering college starts at $6,100.)

Recruiters are trusted men. Their job is to make their firm's grass look greener to the other fellow. But sometimes this big talk works both ways. One company president was telling me about his luck in recruiting last year.

"We didn't do too bad," he said. "Picked up three engineers and lost two recruiters."

JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Food, frozen, can be no more pure and clean than it was when it was put into the freezer! Put tainted food into a freezer, and it will come out tainted. Indeed, there are a few foods that should be used fresh, and should not be depended on after freezing. If you take food which contains, let's say, colon bacillus, and freeze it, the bacillus will be there when you unfreeze it.

Dr. Molner

Ideal temperature for storing frozen foods is zero. This will keep most foods for a year. Raising that temperature by 10 degrees (ordinary Fahrenheit temperature may triple the loss in food quality. As you go higher, deterioration is greater. And remember this: Refreezing food does NOT undo any spoilage or growth of bacteria or loss of texture of flavor that develops during the period of unfreezing.

There is a third point to remember. Keeping air out is important. Naturally, food should be clean when frozen. But you also want to keep air from circulating around the food. That is why the directions that come with freezers lay such stress on proper wrapping.

Ordinary waxed paper is not good enough. Loosely covered containers won't do. Use good paper designed for the purpose. Keep out air, and keep out moisture. A hole in the wrapping defeats the purpose of freezing.

Freezing (with proper wrapping) is one of the most satisfactory forms of preserving food, superior in many respects to canning.

For all practical purposes, there is excellent retention of nutritional quality (including vitamin and mineral content) as well as palatability. There may be slight losses in Vitamins C and D, but not to any significant degree.

☆ ☆ ☆

Doubtless a good many readers with freezers have read guides and direction books and know pretty well what they can do. The following, however, may be a useful indication of precooked foods which can be frozen and kept up to six months:

Chicken — breaded, fried, or in pies or casseroles.

Fish — breaded, fried or in fish cakes.

Croquettes — containing combinations of meat, vegetables, fish or cheese. Also most casserole dishes.

Beef, lamb and veal pies. Also most stews and goulashes.

Hamburgers, meat loaf, meat balls.

Many sandwiches and sandwich spreads — if made without mayonnaise.

Salads, if based on cream or cottage cheese, not mayonnaise.

Baked goods — breads, rolls, cakes.

Fresh fruits and vegetables.

Doris Tunsteg, from whom much of the above is borrowed, writing in "'Modern Hospital," points out that it is best not to cook foods too completely before freezing. It might be added that an excellent example is pastry crust which, if frozen while uncooked, later bakes with an unusually gratifying flakiness.

On the other hand, there are some strict "don'ts" on freezing:

Don't freeze:

Mayonnaise mixtures.

Jelly and jam sandwiches.

Lettuce or chopped raw vegetables, such as chopped celery, radishes, green peppers, cole slaw, etc.

Frostings containing egg white, or pies with meringue tops.

Coffee cream. (Although whipper cream can be frozen.)

And one more — while pork products can be frozen, they should not be frozen for long periods.

☆ ☆ ☆

Now, finally, here are danger signs (aside from cracks or breaks in wrappings) and indications that along the line somewhere, frozen foods have been mishandled:

1—Meats gets a dull, silvery color, and is soft and "slippery."

2—Peaches turn brown.

3—Strawberries become off color and lose flavor.

4—Cherries turn brown.

5—Concentrated orange juice, when reconstituted (mixed with water) settles rapidly, instead of remaining mixed.

6—Vegetables lose their bright color.

7—Frost formation on the food is a bad sign, indicating, of course, that warm, moist air has been coming in contact with it. That, of course, includes all three enemies of frozen food: warmth, moisture, and air.

8—Poultry darkens and dries out.

9—Fats develop a rancid odor.

Freezing is a wonderful convenience, but for the sake of your taste as well as your health, keep these principles in mind, and the comparatively simple do's and don'ts.

Brevity in letters is requested, but length in itself will have no bearing on publication. Writers are advised that needless detail and repetitious matter will be edited out of letters. Too frequent contributions from one person on the same subject may be rejected. All letters must be accompanied by writer's true name, but may be submitted for publication under a pen name or initials. A Parallel

Lincoln, Neb.

"Our youth now loves luxury. They have bad manners, contempt for authority, disrespect for older people. Children nowadays are tyrants. They contradict their parents . . . and tyrannize their teachers."

So asserted Socrates shortly before the defeat of Athens by Sparta. Times have changed but in many ways Athens is like America and Sparta is like Russia.

Athens was the cultural center of that age. Her people enjoyed a flourishing prosperity. Spartan people lived in extreme simplicity, worked hard, and were obliged to identify their own interests with those of the state.

How could a people so powerful be defeated by a people so poor? One of the main factors responsible was that the Athenians grew lazy and decadent while the Spartans grew stronger and spirited.

While prosperous America sits idle, watching "fixed" TV shows and doing just enough to get by, Russia is working overtime to reach and surpass America. Will the result be the same as in the Peloponnesian War? Our present attitudes and actions will decide.

ROTC Program

Lincoln, Neb.

Army ROTC programs at the United States Land Grant Colleges provide the bulk of the Officer Corps for the regular army at the present time. The program also provides the nation with a great reservoir of trained military leaders in the event of a national emergency.

The University of Nebraska at Lincoln has had an army ROTC program for many years. Under the leadership of Col. Rex V. Rawie, PMS&T, Army ROTC, the Army ROTC Cadet Corps at the University of Nebraska has become one of the outstanding in the nation.

These young men receive four years of military training at the university, followed by a period of extended active duty, followed by years of service in the Reserve. While in the reserves they have an opportunity to command, to go to regular service schools, to attend local army schools and take extension courses in military subjects.

These college graduates become leaders in business and the professions in their communities in times of peace. In times of national emergency they provide trained military leadership for the security of our nation.

Schiller Program

Lincoln, Neb.

In behalf of the department, I want to thank The Star for having called attention to the Schiller program to be given tonight at 7:30 in the auditorium of the University Library. I would like to add that the public is cordially invited to attend. There is no charge

It may not be amiss to call attention at this time to the fact that a Linden tree was planted in May, 1905, in honor of the German poet by Prof. Laurence Fossler, at that time chairman of the department and for about 40 years one of the most beloved and respected professors on the campus. The tree is located near Architectural Hall. I know that a great number of Nebraskans cherish the memory of this great teacher and scholar.

Cranberry Trouble

Lincoln, Neb.

The current cranberry dispute indicates laxness in our federal pure food laws. It certainly doesn't look as if we even have a state or city pure food law. After two weeks, cranberries from Wisconsin (so they say) are still for sale and Lincoln has not yet tested or declared any information to her consumer trade.

The state should get busy and investigate. We the people are entitled to know, since one of the most serious diseases could be contracted. Our wholesale and retail merchants should want action at once, and should keep cranberries off the shelves until they are positive on the charge of contamination.

Our state and city are very lax in the matter of pure food laws. There are some bad meats and lots of stale butter and sour milk sold. We need dated milk to be sure we have pure milk for children. The children of today have more colds and diseases than they have ever had.

The REA

Syracuse, Neb.

The editorial, "REA's 25th Anniversary" which appeared in The Star on November 11 shows remarkably clear thought and an understanding of the functioning of the REA lending system.

Many people mistakenly believe that REA-financed public power districts are agencies of the federal government rather than locally-owned and locally-operated businesses.

At a time when the rural electric systems and the REA are being vigorously attacked, it is most reassuring to read editorials such as this.

So You Think Cold Plagues Your Joints—You Should See My Rosebush

By Nancy Shirley

If you're suffering from the aches and pains of a cold or the flu, you might be interested to know that you're not the only organism in the world suffering.

According to Dr. J. C. Walker, noted plant pathologist from the University of Wisconsin, that elm tree outside your door or the rosebush of which you're so proud might also be "sick."

"Everyone in contact with plant culture—whether it be the gardener, farmer or biologist—becomes aware of the fact that plants, too, are subject to various diseases," Dr. Walker told the members of Sigma Xi science honorary Wednesday night.

Many Microbes

"And it wasn't until 100 years ago that scientists began to accept the idea that plant diseases were caused by micro-organisms," he said.

"At that time," he continued, "there developed a slow but steady tendency to put science into plant disease control."

Dr. Walker said that there were two types of control for plant diseases—chemical control and control through the natural resistance of the plant to disease.

"The use of chemicals in disease control is relatively new," the noted research expert said, "but control through plant resistance is as old as plant cultivation itself, if not older."

Law Of Jungle

Effective control of plant disease can best be obtained, he said, through "natural selection." In this type of situation, he explained, only the stronger or disease-resistant plants survive.

"Most of the articles on the American dinner table today are there because of selective breeding," Dr. Walker said.

"North American scientists are notably in the lead in this type of research, and the status of America in this field will depend upon the rate with which basic research progresses," he said.

"And if we hope to be able to feed the increasing number of people which medicine and other sciences heap upon us," he challenged, "we must waste no time from now on in controlling plant diseases."

Kennedy Top Demo Choice Among Polled NU Students

Sen. John Kennedy currently holds a two-to-one lead over all other Democratic presidential hopefuls in the minds of University of Nebraska students.

In a student preference poll conducted by the University Young Democrats Club Kennedy was selected as the top Demo choice by 205 of the 314 polled, according to Don Gies, club president.

Frank Morrison, Lincoln attorney and Democratic candidate for governor, who addressed the group Wednesday evening, labeled the poll results, "a tribute to the attitude of students on the University of Nebraska campus —becuuse Kennedy is a man who appeals to the intellect and the passions of the public."

Touching on state problems, Morrison laid the blame for Nebraska's present Interstate Highway troubles on the "lack of a long-range road plan which would take the highway system out of the political arena."

He noted that a possible solution to the highway problem would be establishment of an "executive type highway commission."

"Until the time we have such a commission it will remain up to the governor to see that the Highway Dept. is run right," he said.

Routing Woes

Morrison, defeated in the last election as a candidate for the U.S. Senate, also pointed out to the 50 young Democrats attending, some of the problems involved in routing the Interstate through Omaha.

He said a through city route would create economic, educational and social problems. He particularly stressed the loss of taxable property connected with such a route.

Although Morrison offered no definite solution to the surplus crop problem he urged students to face the challenge in an effort to ease the situation which "finds this country letting grain rot in storage while people in other lands starve."

He said, "the least we can do is dedicate ourselves to the preservation of peace."

Student poll results:

	Votes	Percent
John Kennedy	205	.65⅓
Adlai Stevenson	50	.15½
Lyndon Johnson	23	.07⅓
Stuart Symington	19	.06½
Hubert Humphrey	14	.04⅓
Others	3	.01

State Residence Only Vet Aid Requirement

The attorney general ruled Wednesday that a veteran who is an applicant for county aid from the Soldiers' Relief Commission need not be a resident of the county in which the application is made.

In an opinion for State Veterans' Affairs director Louis Eby, Deputy Atty. General Clarence A. H. Meyer wrote in the opinion that the veteran need only have a legal residence in this state.

Brando Tells Of Battles With Anna

. . . Ex-Wife Counters That He Beat Her

Santa Monica, Calif. (AP)—Marlon Brando, once the movies' champion of privacy for actors, Wednesday made public minute details of violent battles with his ex-wife.

He said she once came at him with a butcher knife, tried to run over him, threw a tricycle at him. He admitted he spanked her and once tied her with a sash.

She countered that he beat her, threw her down while she held their baby, ransacked her residence.

The Academy award-winning star and Indian-born actress Anna Kashfi have been feuding over his visiting rights with their 18-month-old son, Christian Devi.

When they were divorced last April 22, she got a settlement of more than half a million dollars. He got the right to see his son every other night for an hour and a half and have custody for a month each summer.

Brando asked Superior Court to hold Miss Kashfi in contempt for refusing him visiting rights. She wanted the decree modified so Brando could visit only for 3 hours on Saturdays.

Documents Offered

Each submitted documents detailing their fights.

Brando said when he visited Miss Kashfi's home last May:

"She snatched the baby from my arms. I grabbed her and she slipped and she sat down with the baby.

"She went to the bedroom to call police. I told her not to. She persisted. I slapped her twice—once on the face and once on the shoulder and I started to spank her.

"The child began to cry, so I stopped. I started to leave the house via the kitchen. She grabbed a butcher knife and started to come at me. I pushed her away. She raised the knife. I told her to go ahead if it would make her happy. She threw the knife on the floor and came at me again, grabbing my hair. I freed myself and I left."

Anna Brando

Mrs. Brando's version was that Brando threw her on the floor while she was holding the baby—and that he struck her numerous times; that he ruined her sleep with middle-of-the-night phone calls and once ransacked her home and read her mail.

Community Council Gets Health Group

The Community Advisory Health Council has become the health section of the Lincoln Community Council as the result of an amendment to the Health Council's constitution.

At the annual meeting of the health council Wednesday, members voted on a constitutional revision which carries out a consolidation between the health and community councils.

The revision also provides that the chairman of the health council be appointed by the president of the Lincoln Community Council.

Prior to the revision, the health council served as an advisory board of the City-County Health Department, and was not officially connected to the community council. Under the revision, the health council will continue to serve as an advisory board for the health department as well as be the health section of the community council.

Cyril Bish was elected vice president of the Community Advisory Health Council, and Mrs. Robert Gilmour was elected secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. Dorothy Ogden will continue duties as president until a new presiding officer is appointed.

Leftist Thomas Marks Birthday, Says 'Better To Have Fought And Lost...'

New York (AP) -- Norman Thomas, the irrepressible rebel, celebrated his 75th birthday still hammering away at the walls of injustice, war and vested interests.

"It's what makes life worth while," said the inveterate Socialist leader.

About 800 old cronies, critics, allies and political antagonists honored him at a dinner.

"Our country, whatever its faults, has a capacity for friendships even among those who don't agree," he said in an interview.

A spare, white-haired man, with firm, gentle eyes and a face etched with a resolute purpose, Thomas for half a century has been a non-conformist battler for social reforms.

"A good cuase can never be fully lost," he said. "Apparent defeat is not the end. Things have a way of reviving. Besides, it's better to have fought and lost, than never to have fought at all."

Dr. Frank P. Graham, North Carolina educator, former senator and now a U.N. mediator, said for more than 50 years the country "has been trying to catch up" with Thomas' ideals, "only to find him on some farther front."

Many of one-time frontiers Thomas helped chart — social security, collective bargaining, state responsibility in unemployment, government-aided housing — now are accepted functions of the American system.

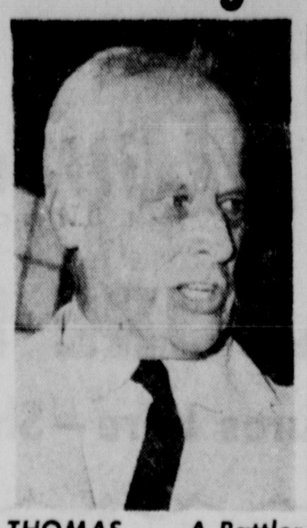

"I challenge you, my Democratic and Republican friends . . ." said the man, who 6 times has been defeated as his party's presidential candidate.

He said "our affluent society" still has "pockets of unnecessary and disgraceful poverty." He said the steel-strike problem showed that such key industries should be state-owned like the TVA.

But he reserved his strongest plea for the cause of peace.

"Our only hope, the only hope of generations yet unborn, is a world without war," he said.

To that end, he predicted that if present economic trends in this country and Russia continue, both systems will become "so nearly similar as to abolish acute ideological conflict."

Board Authorizes Service Reduction By Union Pacific

The Union Pacific Railroad has been authorized by the State Railway Commission to institute irregular service except one day a week in lieu of tri-weekly service from Grand Island to Ord and from St. Paul to Loup City.

The State Railway Commission said the authority was granted "on a temporary trial basis for a period of 6 months until May 15, 1960 or until further order of the commission.

On its own motion, the commission continued a hearing set for Nov. 18 on an application by the Burlington Railway to discontinue passenger trains 41 and 44 between Lincoln and Alliance.

The new hearing date is Jan. 12 at Alliance.

The commission authorized the Northern Telephone Company of Blair to establish a non-recurring installation charge and a monthly rate of 25 cents in addition to regular authorized rates for certain service.

Wahoo Hosts JCA Annual Meet Today

Wahoo — Members of the Nebraska Junior College Association will assemble here Thursday for the organization's annual delegate convention.

This year's conference is being hosted by Luther Junior College, headed by President Martin Carlson.

The junior college representatives will be addressed at the afternoon session by Jack N. Williams, registrar of Creighton University. His topic is "American College Testing Program."

Another feature of the opening session is a discussion of school methods by Dr. Paul Olson of the University of Nebraska English department.

A workshop on construction and use of audio-visual materials tops the Saturday program. A breakfast also is planned.

Officers of the junior college group include Dean Hal E. Hagen of Scottsbluff and Norma Haiwick of Luther Junior College.

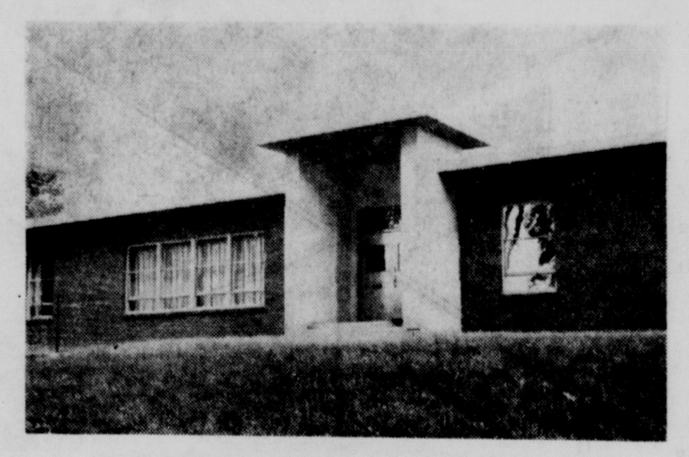

Going to move? Then notify the Circulation Dept. so you won't miss your paper. Be sure to give both old and new address.

Crime Unit Investigates Plane Crash

New Orleans (AP) — Managing Director Aaron Kohn of the New Orleans Crime Commission said Wednesday his group was investigating whether the presence of Ellis (Itchy) Mandel might have had something to do with the loss of a National Airlines plane.

The plane crashed early Monday in the foggy Gulf of Mexico, about 25 miles off the southeastern Louisana coast, with 42 on board. Only 9 bodies have been picked out of the rough gulf waters.

Kohn said his group made inquiries why Mandel, whom Kohn identified as an associate of Los Angeles ex-gambler Mickey Cohen, was on the plane.

Foul Play Hinted

"There is no basis for substantiation," Kohn emphasized, "but Mandel is not an ordinary person aboard an ordinary flight. We have a number of conjectures and one of them is that there could have been foul play because of Mandel's presence."

Kohn denied a report in a Los Angeles newspaper, quoting him as saying something went wrong on the plane before the crash.

"There might have been a misunderstanding on this," Kohn said. "I merely indicated my goup was piqued at that possibility because the cause of the crash has not yet been determined, and we merely conjectured the possibility of a mid-air explosion. People in Mandel's circles are known to do such things."

"We were interested in why Mandel might be in this part of the country," Kohn said.

Young Girl Takes Witness Stand In Local Rape Trial

Second day testimony in the trial of former airman Earl Texter on statutory rape charges included the testimony of the alleged victim, an 8-year-old former Lincoln girl.

The child, who now lives in Montana, related the circumstances of the alleged rape by the airman on July 22, while on the stand for almost an hour.

Also testifying was the child's older sister, who is now residing in Philadelphia with Texter and his parents.

Attornies for the prosecution and defense questioned witnesses intensively in an attempt to straighten out apparent discrepancies in events surrounding the alleged rape of the child.

Texter, formerly stationed at Lincoln Air Force Base, has not yet been called to the stand in his own defense.

The trial will continue Thursday with further defense witnesses, before going to the jury.

Conviction on statutory rape charges is punishable by from 3 to 20 years in prison.

Knox Co. Redistricting Considered

The State Committee for Reorganization of School Districts considered a county reorganization committee plan for the Bloomfield area in Knox County.

The state committee did not announce whether it had taken action on the proposal submitted by the Knox County committee.

If formed, the new district would have an assessed valuation of $6,620,167 and an enrollment of 356 elementary and 373 junior-senior high school students.

Jefferson Plan Delayed

A Jefferson County comprehensive plan was considered and approved with recommendations by the committee.

In other action, the state committee approved one petition plan and gave qualified approval to four others while refusing to approve another one.

Approved was a petition plan in Seward County calling for dissolving Districts 8, 12, 15, 30, 33, 41, 90 and portions of Districts 6, 7, 14, 51, 71, 63 and 87 and attaching to Seward District 9.

Rebel Teamster Lawyer Asks Hoffa's Ouster Pending Trial On Glut Of Charges

New York (AP)—An attorney for insurgent members of the Teamsters Union asked Wednesday for the removal of Teamster President James Hoffa.

In a motion mailed to federal district court in Washington, attorney Godfrey P. Schmidt asved for Hoffa's ouster pending trial before a board of special examiners or referees.

The motion, sent to Judge F. Dickinson Letts, charges that Hoffa deprived Teamster members of rights guaranteed by the new labor law.

It also accused him of consistent unwillingness to cooperate with a 3-man board of monitors appointed by the court to regulate Hoffa's administration of the union.

The board grew out of legal proceedings initiated by Schmidt in behalf of rank and file Teamsters opposed to Hoffa's control.

Wednesday's motion asks for Hoffa's trial on charges previously filed by Schmidt alleging misuse of union powers.

The group of Teamsters represented by Schmidt has fought Hoffa in the courts for over two years, filing more than 263 charges against him.

Appeals and other legal steps have prevented a disposition of the charges.

The motion said the union's executive board, who normally would consider the charges against Hoffa, is "not capable of impartial adjudication." It charged them with being "stooges" of Hoffa who owe their official positions to him.

Eyes Outside Help

Because of this, the motion said, a court-appointed board was needed to try Hoffa.

Schmidt and Hoffa have been bitter enemies since the start of the reform movement inside the union over two years ago.

When Judge Letts set up the board of monitors last year to keep a check on the 1½-million-member union, Schmidt was appointed as a monitor.

He resigned last June because of a possible conflict of interests. In addition to representing dissident Teamster he also has clients who deal with the union as employers.

GREMLINS PUT HEX ON 'RAPLH' IN NEW CAPITOL DIRECTORIES

There was a bit of scurrying around the Statehouse Wednesday to retrieve copies of the new Statehouse telephone directory after it was discovered that the directory covers bore a misspelling of the governor's name.

Those gremlins which sometimes roost in printing machines transposed Ralph into Raplh G. Brooks.

Building and Grounds Superintendent James Delehant, who is in charge of preparation and distribution of the directories, said the copies would be returned to the printer to have the covers corrected.

Approximately 250 of the 800 directories had been delivered before the error was noticed, Delehant said.

The building superintendent said printing of the new directory was let out on contract this year for the first time and cost about $200. Previous years' copies have been printed by various departments in the Statehouse.

The new directories sell for 50 cents a copy. It is the first time a charge has been made for the directories.

Sanders Asks 'Clear Lights' Law Opinion

Col. C. J. Sanders of the State Patrol said Wednesday he will seek an attorney general's opinion on a 1931 law which would require certain wide 1960 model cars to display clearance lights.

Col. Sanders said the law requires every vehicle of 80 inches or more width to display on its left side an amber clearance light in front and a red one in the rear.

Some late model cars are as wide as 80¾ inches, Sanders said.

"But I can't see any problem as far as the safety angle is concerned," he added.

The law was written to meet the needs of 1931, he pointed out.

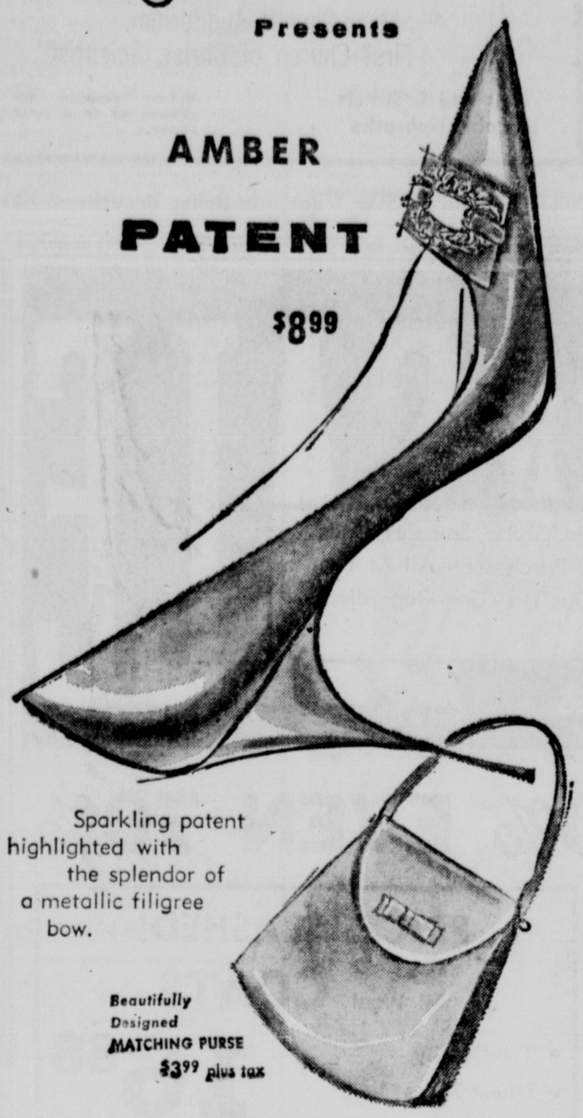

Alvin Scissors, director of motor vehicles, said as far as he is concerned the tail lights on the new cars are near enough to the left edge to comply with the law, and the headlights too except that they are white instead of amber as the law requires.

He said the problem is a "technical" one and said the new width is "not a hazard."

The maximum width for vehicles, properly lighted, is 96 inches or 8 feet, he said.

State Costs Are Down $2 Million

State government costs for October dipped some $2 million under September costs, the state tax commissioner's office reported Wednesday.

October costs were $11,562,206 compared to $13,636,190 in September. The October expenditures raised the total since the biennium opened July 1 to $50,173,363.

A year ago in October, the monthly cost was $17,973,691. This, however, includes funds spent by the University of Nebraska and four normal colleges which last year were counted as cash funds but which the Legislature changed this year to revolving funds, hence they are not included in this year's figures.

With those revolving fund expenditures included, spending for this October would have been $12,456,865 to compare with the figure for a year ago.

Road Spending Down

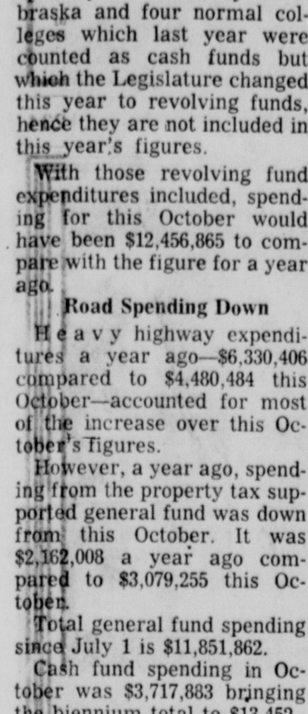

Heavy highway expenditures a year ago—$6,330,406 compared to $4,480,484 this October—accounted for most of the increase over this October's figures.

However, a year ago, spending from the property tax supported general fund was down from this October. It was $2,162,008 a year ago compared to $3,079,255 this October.

Total general fund spending since July 1 is $11,851,862.

Cash fund spending in October was $3,717,883 bringing the biennium total to $13,452,891 while federal fund spending for the month was $3,791,532 hiking the total since July 1 to $21,525,783.

Dear Abby--

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Why do teachers nowadays give the kids so much homework that an 11-year-old-child has to sit up until midnight to get it all done? Don't tell me that we have to keep up with Russia because if we never get to the moon it will be all right with me.

I think it is terrible the way our kids can't play outside in the fresh air any more. They come right home and have to start in with their homework. I have three children (11, 13 and 16) so I know what I'm talking about. They are all up studying at very late hours and when I have to wake them up at 6:30 in the morning they are dead tired. Can't something be done about teaching the children at school so that they won't have all that homework to ruin their health?

MOTHER OF THREE

DEAR MOTHER: The average 11-year-old shouldn't have to sit up until midnight doing homework — unless of course he doesn't get to it until 10:00 p.m. Go to school and talk to your children's teachers. I think you'll find that the child who is well-organized and doesn't dawdle, has plenty of time for playing outside as well as finishing his homework at a reasonable hour.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: For obvious reasons I don't want to get too specific here, but I would like to know to whom a citizen reports a policeman who has been seen breaking the law repeatedly?

WITNESS

DEAR WITNESS: The County Attorney.

DEAR ABBY: Please help a very unhappy 16-year-old girl out with her problem. I have been begging my mother for three years to let me shave my legs. She says once you start, you can't stop, and there is no sense in rushing things. But, Abby, I am a brunette, and my legs are so hairy I feel like a gorilla.

I read in a magazine article once that a person CAN stop shaving if they want to. Who is right? The magazine article or my mother? I hate to go to school looking like this. Can you help me convince my mother?

HAIRY

DEAR HAIRY: Yes, a person CAN stop shaving any time he wishes. But the hair will keep right on growing. It is my opinion that a young lady who has a conspicuous growth of dark hair on her legs should be permitted to remove it. Shaving it is not the only method. Investigate "depilatories."

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: My brother was in the U.S. Navy and he went nuts over a Japanese doll. He married her and went away on a 6-month cruise. When he came home he found his wonderful Japanese wife washing somebody else's feet.

BROTHER BEN

☆ ☆ ☆

CONFIDENTIAL TO CAROL: He is more interested in a "BACHELOR'S" degree. If you are looking for your "MRS." — play the field.

If you have a problem, write to Abigail Van Buren in care of this paper. She will be glad to answer your letter. For a personal reply enclose a self-addressed envelope.

Opening lead — jack of spades.

One of the traits that distinguishes a good player from an average one is that he doesn't give up when he appears to be licked.

This philosophy applies as much to a defender as it does to declarer. The idea always is to try to beat your opponent, even when the outlook is gloomy and unpromising.

Observe this case where West led a spade, South taking the king. Declarer led a diamond and West won with the king.

The fate of the hand rested on West's next play. There was only one card in his hand he could lead to defeat the contract.

West led the ten of hearts and declarer's goose was cooked.

If dummy played the ace, the defenders would eventually win three hearts and two diamonds for a one trick set.

If dummy played the jack instead, East's king would win, and a heart return would again establish the setting trick.

And if dummy played the three on the ten of hearts lead, East would signal with the six and then play his king on the heart continuation. In all three cases South would wind up down one, losing three hearts and the A-K of diamonds.

West's defense is based on practical considerations. He cannot sit idly by and make the "safe" return of the ten of spades at trick three. To do so would be a concession of defeat, what with dummy's long diamond suit in plain view.

West must attack. He must probe for declarer's weakness. He must assume there is one. That weakness cannot lie in clubs, since South is bound to have club strength for his opening bid.

The only hope is that South lacks the king of hearts. Hearts are therefore attacked. But the choice of which heart to lead is crucial. A low heart would be ducked in dummy and South would make the contract. The lead of the queen would likewise be unsuccessful. Declarer would take the ace and still have a heart stopper.

Only the lead of the ten prevents South from making the hand.

—The sunshine and snow country — Sun Valley — to be specific, brings the caviar touch to Lincoln in the current Town and Country. There, in a series of Sun Valley pictures, one finds a whole page devoted to Miss Lynn Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Flavel Wright, in a swim suit (tres elegante). But the photographer found Miss Wright a most attractive and photogenic young woman, and in addition to the swim suit page there are other pictures — one of Miss Wright in a casual frock— and the third involves a bicycle.

Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Bell are the maternal grandparents, and the paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. George Shaw of Portland, Ore.

Beatrice Case Re-Hearing Asked

Norris Rural Public Power District filed a motion for rehearing in the Nebraska Supreme Court Wednesday on the court's decision that Norris' contract with the City of Beatrice was null and void.

The court ruled that Norris' 10-year $3.5 million contract with Beatrice was null and void because Norris' charter limited it to serving rural customers.

The court's decision reversed a Gage County District Court decision in the case brought by 3 Beatrice taxpayers and Consumers Public Power District which previously had served Beatrice.

Norris attorneys listed 9 alleged errors in the Supreme Court's ruling.

Among the alleged errors listed was one that the Supreme Court had stated that Norris' sale of power to Beatrice comprised 60% of Norris' total sale of power.

'26 to 30%'

"Only 26 to 30% of Norris' sale of electricity is represented by the sales to Beatrice, and there is no evidence to the contrary in the record," Norris attorneys said in their brief.

"We think it is clear that the Legislature has sought to encourage a free and unfettered delivery of electricity among municipalities and public power districts on a wholesale basis," the brief contended.

"The court's opinion, as it stands, will be a severe and unnecessary obstacle to wholesale transactions among municipalities and public power districts. We do not think that the opinion expresses the legislative intention with respect to this area of public power law," the brief concluded.

Included in the motion and brief was a request for oral arguments before the state's highest court. The arguments probably will be heard Dec. 11.

STUDENTS TALK OF TEACHING

'Youth Can Work For Better Schools'—Students Are Told

"There is no more noble profession than that of teaching and there has never been as great an opportunity for young people to work with us for better schools as now," 37 handpicked Lincoln public school seniors were told Wednesday.

"But those who would improve the schools would do well to approach the problems in a spirit of co-operation, Nebraska Wesleyan University Dean Sam Dahl told them.

"If the schools are made better it will be because people work together and not because they work at cross purposes," the former Nebraska public school teacher and administrator said.

Dr. Dahl spoke at a Kiwanis Club sponsored "Introduction to Teaching Conference on the Wesleyan campus late Wednesday afternoon and evening."

"More things have been accomplished by co-operation than by criticism and antagonism," Dr. Dahl said. "It's the old cliche of catching more flies with honey than with vinegar."

'Partial Payment'

Another speaker, Dr. R. L. Fredstrom, assistant superintendent of the Lincoln public schools, pointed out that no generation has ever been able to repay previous generations for blessings resulting from the efforts of others, but that teaching is one profession where a person can at least in part begin to make a partial repayment.

Speaking at the opening session was Dr. Donald O. Clifton, University of Nebraska educational psychologist who discussed "Teaching in 1970."

Dr. Larry Vaughan of the Wesleyan staff presided over the sessions which included panel discussions with Wesleyan education majors, Wesleyan staff members, and Lincoln public school teachers, serving as resource leaders.

Dr. Vaughan said the annual conference is designed to give "fresh insights into professional education to a select group of young people who have demonstrated both the aptitude and the inclination to become good teachers."

'Outer 7' Trade Tie At Hand

Stockholm (UPI) — Officials of 7 European nations Wednesday worked out the last kinks in a new treaty that will give West Europe two huge rival trade groupings.

The treaty, to be signed in the next two days at a ministerial meeting, will create the European Free Trade Area, or so-called Outer Seven.

Its members will be Austria, Britain, Denmark, Norway, Portugal, Sweden and Switzerland — an area comprising 85 million people.

US-Size Population

It will rival the European Common Market composed of France, Italy, West Germany, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg, an area of 160 million people.

Members of the two groupings have been trying to build between them to prevent a damaging trade war but efforts so far have been unsuccessful.

The Common Market was created in Rome in March, 1957. The treaty went into effect last Jan. 1.

Trade Bars To Fade

Its aim was to abolish all tariffs, quotas and other trade barriers among the 6 nations over a period of 12 to 15 years and create common tariff rates for all nations outside the market.

Nine months ago the Outer Seven started working on their own trade treaty and this is the one to be signed in the next two days.

The 7 countries aim to slash tariffs among themselves by 20% starting next July 1. Thereafter there would be periodic 10% cuts until all trade barriers were eliminated by Jan. 1, 1970.

5 OMAHA CAB FIRMS SEEK RATE RAISE

The Nebraska Railway Commission Wednesday set a hearing for Nov. 24 on applications by five Omaha taxicab firms for rate increases.

The hearing will be at Lincoln before a Commission examiner on the applications by Yellow Cab, Checker Cab, Commission examiner on the applications by Yellow Cab, Safeway Cabs, Ritz Cab and United Cab, all of Omaha.

The taxi firms are asking that the present rates of 45 cents for the first ½ mile and 10 cents for each additional ½ mile be raised to 45 cents for the first 2/5 mile and 10 cents for each additional 2/5 miles.

All other rates now in effect are not to be changed.

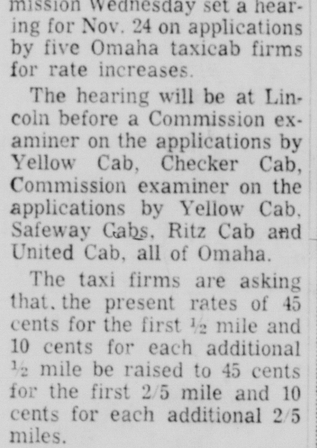

Sen. Frank Nelson Files For Unicam From 28th District

State Sen. Frank Nelson of O'Neill filed Wednesday for reelection to the state Legislature from the 28th District.

Nelson has been a legislator since 1949. He is a farmer and stockman, and has been school board member, township treasurer, clerk, justice of the peace and assessor.

He filed with the Nebraska Secretary of State's office to have his name placed on the ballot of the May 10 primaries.

The 28th District is composed of Keya Paha, Boyd, Rock and Holt counties.

Allison Top AL Rookie

Snyder, Perry Get Mention

Boston (AP) — Bob Allison, the Washington Senators' muscular center fielder Wednesday was named the American League Rookie of the year for 1959.

Allison

It was the second year in a row that Washington's center fielder had been chosen for the honor by the Baseball Writers Association of America, and Allison forced the previous winner, little Albie Pearson, out of his position.

Pearson, the 1958 winner, was traded to Baltimore this season after the 6-foot-3, 210 pound Allison had secured the centerfield job.

Curiously, virtually the same situation existed in the National League, where the 1959 Rookie of the Year, Willie McCovey of San Francisco, forced the 1958 winner, Orlando Cepeda, out of his first base spot and into a new position.

Allison, 25, a former fullback for the University of Kansas, easily outdistanced Cleveland's Jim Perry and Russ Snyder of Kansas City in the balloting by a 24 man committee of the baseball writers. He polled 18 votes, Perry had 5 and Snyder one.

Neither Perry nor Snyder were on the major league rosters at the start of the 1959 season, but became dependable starters by September.

Perry, called up from Mobile, had a 12-10 record while Snyder, purchased from Portland in July, wound up with a .313 average.

Yanks Bid To Trim Deficit

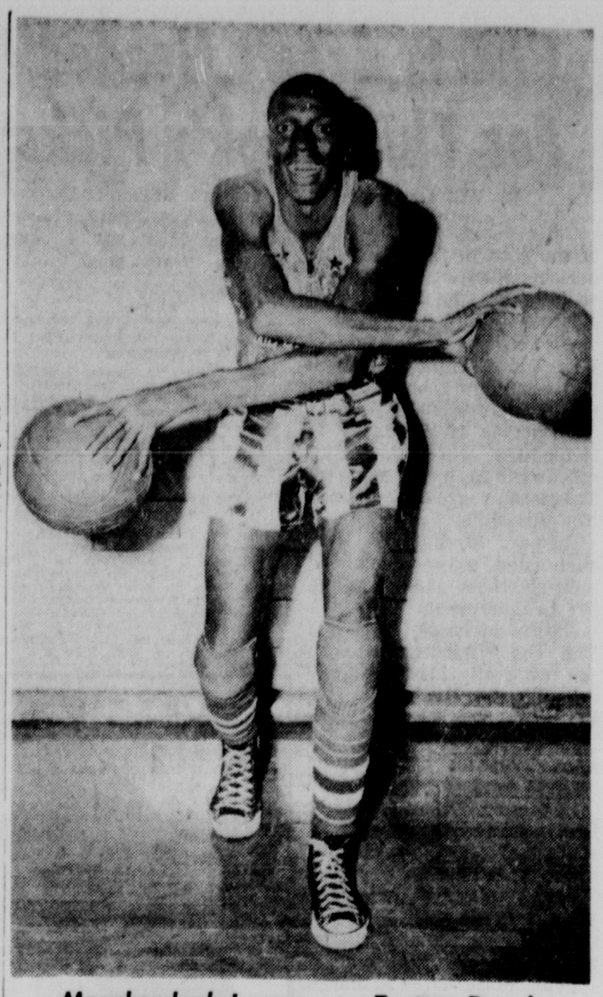

Melbourne, Thursday (AP) — Eight strokes behind in 5th place, the American team of Sam Snead and Cary Middlecoff launched what they hoped would be a strong rally today at the start of the second round of the Canada Cup golf matches.

They played the outgoing 9 in 3-under-par. Snead had a 34 and Middlecoff a 33. Par is 34-36--70.

The Australian team of Peter Thomson and Kel Nable, the first round leader with a 137, was to tee off later.

Vigorous Baseball Trading Expected

New York (AP) — Trading will be brisk between Nov. 21 and Dec. 15, the unprecedented week inter-league trading season for major league baseball.

Club owners and general managers — the fellows who do the bartering—have been suspiciously quiet, but don't let that fool you. Several trades already have been completed. Others are on the verge of completion. Only official confirmation is lacking.

The two known completed deals are:

1. Baltimore's Bob Nieman for St. Louis' Gene Green.

2. Boston's Dick Gernert for the Chicago Cubs' Dave Hillman and Rufe Marshall.

A big name-involving trade that has reached the serious discussion stage would send St. Louis' Joe Cunningham discussion stage would send St. Louis' Joe Cunningham to the Chicago White Sox for southpaw Billy Pierce, third baseman Billy Goodman and outfielder Jim Rivera.

In their search for power, the White Sox have an alternate trade hanging fire should a hitch develop in their dealings with the Cardinals. That one involves the Cleveland Indians, and would bring Minnie Minoso in exchange for third baseman Bubba Phillips and catcher John Romano.

General manager Parke Carroll of Kansas City said the A's are certain to swing at least two deals with National League clubs during the unrestricted trading period. He declined to identify any of the players involved but he admitted his club needs a pitcher, a catcher, and a third baseman.

Two long time favorites—Gil McDougald and Frank Thomas—are being dangled in front of clubs in the rival leagues. General Manager Gabe Paul of Cincinnati has offered Thomas to Cleveland for Herb Score and to the Yankees for Norm Siebern and Don Larsen. He was rejected by both clubs.

Yankee manager George Weiss is mulling over offers from 3 clubs in the National League—St. Louis, San Francisco and Milwaukee—for McDougald.

Washington has offered relief pitcher Truman Clevinger and one of the second basemen—Reno Bertoia, Ken Aspromonte or Billy Consolo—to the Giants for outfielder Felipe Alou.

Milwaukee reportedly has offered pitcher Carleton Willey and second baseman Felix Mantilla for Detroit's Frank Bolling or Cleveland's Billy Martin. Baltimore is said to be willing to swap southpaw Billy O'Dell to the Giants for Alou. Detroit is about ready to close a deal with Philadelphia for shortstop Chico Fernandez.

Others who may change uniforms include Washington's Pedro Ramos and Roy Sievers; Kansas City's Bob Cerv, New York's Marv Throneberry, Los Angeles' Don Zimmer and Don Elston of the Cubs.

Sherry October Award Winner

New York (AP) — Larry Sherry, rookie relief ace of the Los Angeles Dodgers, was named the October winner in the S. Rae Hickok professional athlete of the year balloting.

Sherry, who won two games and saved two others as the Dodgers beat the White Sox in the World Series, won by a wide margin over Cleveland Browns' fullback Jimmy Brown.

A'S TAB ELLIOTT

Sacramento Pilot Moves Up To AL

Kansas City (AP)—Bob Elliott, 42, manager of Sacramento of the Pacific Coast League and former major league outfielder-3rd baseman, was signed Wednesday to manage the Kansas City Athletics.

Elliott succeeds Harry Craft, former A's coach who piloted the A's to 7th-place finishes in 1958 and 1959. Craft was fired at the end of the 1959 season but has taken a job in the club's player development program.

Craft was the second manager since the club moved to Kansas City. His predecessor was Lou Boudreau, who led the club from 1955 until he was fired at the end of the 1957 season.

The signing was announced at a press conference less than two hours after Elliott arrived by plane from San Diego, Calif.

Parke Carroll, A's General Manager, said the contract is for one year but declined to say at what salary.

Elliott would say only: "I'm well satisfied."

Elliott played in the majors 14½ years. He broke in with the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1939 and played with the Bucs 8 seasons. He was traded to the Boston Braves and later saw service with the New York Giants and the St. Louis Browns before winding up his career with the Chicago White Sox.

His first job as a manager was with San Diego of the Pacific Coast League in 1955. Fired by the Padres in 1957, he was signed to pilot Sacramento in 1959 and had also been signed to a 1960 contract by the club.

However, the new pact contained a clause freeing him to accept any offer to manage a major league club.

On his arrival here by plane he said the A's had first contacted him several days ago on his return from a hunting trip to Colorado.

"I was interested in taking the job as soon as they contacted me," he said.

Net Gals Add Class For Show

What originally shaped up as a mighty fine show the Harlem Globetrotters were to head at Pershing Auditorium on Wednesday night, November 25 at 8 p.m. has suddenly developed into a blockbuster.

It all comes about with the inclusion into the program of tennis queens Althea Gibson, the tennis lass who twice won the Wimbledon and the United States championships (1957 and 1958) and "Golden Goddess" Karol Fageros, famed as much for her playing in gold lame' pants as for her tennis.

The new program calls for the tennis aces to feature the first half of the program in a match of some 45 minutes to an hour's duration.

Owner Abe Saperstein is reportedly paying Althea $100,000.00 and Karol some $30,000.00" for their tour.

The Globetrotters, with the same lineup of brilliant stars, showmen and razzle dazzle artists that wowed Russia and the French Foreign Legion on their 10th annual summer tour of Europe, behind the Iron Curtain and North Africa last summer, then take over the court.

TOLLY . . . Top Honor

Harry Tolly To Receive Scholar-Athlete Award

Lincoln Star Special

New Brunswick, N.J. —Nebraska Quarterback Harry Tolly will be one of 8 football players in the nation honored at a December banquet in New York City, it was announced Wednesday.

Tolly, senior signal caller from North Platte, has been named a recipient of a National Football Foundation scholar-athlete award.

The award carries with it the $500 Earl Blaik scholarship for post-graduate work.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur will be the featured speaker at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel banquet.

The first annual award is presented to one senior player-scholar from each of the 8 National Collegiate Athletic Association districts. Qualifications include outstanding academic application and achievement and outstanding campus leadership and example.

Col. Earl Blaik, former Army coach, made possible the awards by donating his fees for writing Associated Press columns to the NFF.

Other players honored: Gerhard Schwedes of Syracuse; Paul Shoquette of Brown; Neyle Sollee of Tennessee; Pat Smyth of Wyoming; Maurice Doke of Texas; Phillip Roos of Ohio Wesleyan; and Don Newell of California.

Tolly is in his 3rd season as a Nebraska Cornhusker. He was the top quarterback as a sophomore, shared the duties with George Harshman as a junior, and has been a mainstay this fall.

The North Platte star, son of former Bulldog coach Roscoe Tolly, is a top defensive player and an outstanding punter. He also has won two NU baseball letters.

Among Tolly's other campus accomplishments: a member of the student council, the Innocents (senior honor society), Pi Mu Epsilon (national honor mathematics society), president of the Varsity N Club, a B-plus student majoring in mathematics and will take post-graduate work in education.

A top student throughout his college career, Tolly has an accumulated grade average of 7.740 (perfect grade is 9.0.)

MIZZOU SAYS NO TO BOWL

Columbia, Mo. (AP)— Coach Dan Devine said Wednesday Missouri has informed Blue Grass officials it is not interested in playing in the post-season football game at Louisville, Ky., Dec. 12.

The Blue Grass committee said at Louisville it had invited Missouri and Air Force to play in the bowl game.

—Nothing To Worry About—

NU, Wildcats Will Open Up

By Don Bryant

Nebraska's Cornhuskers and Kansas State's Wildcats have one thing in common: nothing to worry about after Saturday.

Neither has a chance at the Orange Bowl and Saturday's clash will close the 1959 season for both.

With this in mind, it comes as no surprise that both coaches promise all out victory bids.

"We've got nothing to wait for now," NU Coach Bill Jennings said Wednesday. "We're going to shoot the works at Manhattan."

Up from the Sunflower State comes this word from Wildcat Coach Bus Mertes:

"We are destined for the conference cellar, but we could receive a lot of satisfaction if we could do the unexpected—beat Nebraska.

"We used the spread in the 4th quarter Saturday (against Missouri) and it gave our men a definite shot in the arm. We moved the ball pretty well off the spread, too, but a fumble stopped us."

Aware that Kansas State will be gunning for his Huskers—who, in turn, will be seeking a .500 season mark—Jennings Wednesday stepped up preparations.

Included on the agenda was the polishing of the offense and defense—particularly against the spread and passes—and an extra session of kicking.

"We usually put in our kicking game on Thursday, but we're going a day early this week so we'll have time for additional work Thursday," Jennings said.

There was no contact work Wednesday, and all hands but Halfback Pat Fischer and Guard Dick Kosier were in suit going full speed. However, both injured players are slated for duty against K-State.

Day In Court

Husker Center Darrell Cooper has been late to practice this week for an unusual reason.

He's had to appear in court in connection with a criminal case.

Cooper worked for the Lincoln Police Force last summer and his presence in court was necessary to the prosecution of a case.

"I don't know if Darrell will be done with court in time to go to Manhattan with us," Jennings said.

Charity Bout Set

Cleveland (AP)—Heavyweights Sonny Liston of Philadelphia and Willi Besmanoff of Milwaukee have signed for a 10-round bout that will top the Cleveland News' annual Toyshop Boxing Show Dec. 9.

Class B Crown 2nd In 3 Years For Holdrege

. . . Romp Over McCook Clinched Duster Title

By Al Beebe

By shellacking Class A McCook 26-6 in its final game, Holdrege wrapped up its second Class B championship in 3 years.

The Dusters, who finished with an 8-1 mark, also won the crown in 1957. A year ago, though unbeaten, Holdrege finished 3rd behind Schuyler and Omaha Holy Name.

Schuyler went through another unbeaten year, but ranks only 4th this season, behind Cozad and Aurora. Schuyler played the same schedule as last season, with nearly equal success, but the slate proved weaker this year.

Holdrege slipped only once, suffering a 19-7 loss to Kearney when the Bearcats were still going strong. But the Dusters came up with great wins over Broken Bow and Cozad to take the crown.

Cozad and Aurora, which played a 6-6 tie in the opening game, finish 2-3, with Cozad displaying a tougher schedule.

1. Holdrege — Jess Keifer had excellent backs in Spencer Puls, Jim Tederman and Forrie Dahlstet, with Kent Stadler leading the line from an end position.

2. Cozad — Haymakers of Harold Chaffee were tops until falling at Holdrege. Best wins over Ogallala, McCook, Broken Bow, Kearney and Lexington. This was a powerful club, led by quarterback Doug German.

3. Aurora — George Zember's club moved up in final comparisons with Schuyler. Unbeaten, paced by Dallas Luthy and Dru Gellatly.

4. Schuyler — Powerful backfield of Frank Sobota, Larry Trofholz, Gary Brichacek and Frank Groulik. Quartet made Fred Arnold's first year at Schuyler a happy debut.

5. Broken Bow — Powerful junior halfback Kent McCloughan made Indians one of most feared team in state. Early leader until meeting top two.

6. Auburn — Veteran squad hit high mark with tie of Falls City, then dropped by unranked Ralston the next week. Kent Wallace gave Max Kitzelman an outstanding end and place kicker.

7. Bridgeport—Tackle Clif Houk led team, which slipped only in 6-6 tie with Class C Hemingford. Wound up with two Class A wins.

8. Gothenburg — Rugged schedule made good record tough for Swedes. Best win 32-14 over Ogallala.

9. Central City — Bison upset Minden, played well in other contests. Ties at end of season hampered rating.

10. Minden — Injury to Sammy Somerhalder hurt club, but team proved one of best.

KEEPING SCORE

Cold-Weather Football Okay

Playing football in the cold weather of last Friday was okay, at least according to Pius X coach Vince Aldrich.

Aldrich reported he was glad they had played the game with Southeast, although his charges lost a 20-19 thriller.

"It was really a good game. I think we proved good football can be played in cold weather," said Aldrich.

Aldrich

Vince revealed the method used to keep his Thunderbolts warm. The squad purchased several thin plastic bags of the type used by dry cleaners (those which the public is warned not to leave lying around for fear that children can suffocate in them).

Holes were cut for the head and arms, and the garment bag was worn underneath the jersey, and over a few layers of regular clothing. Feet were wrapped in left-over plastic.

Pius players reported only their exposed hands and faces suffered from the cold, said Aldrich.

Pius Rough On Predictions

Speaking of Pius X, the Thunderbolts gave me the most trouble on my predictions of the outcome of local games. Of 9 Pius games, I missed correctly guessing the result 3 times. They were losses to Falls City and Omaha Cathedral and the tie with Columubs St. Bonaventure. I said Pius would win in each case.

My score for the 4 city teams wound up 30-8—.789, or slightly better than the overall season average for the entire state. Guess it proves it helps to pick the teams close to home.

I had the best luck with Lincoln High, where my tally was 9-1, missing only on Central's win over LHS.

I was 8-2 with Northeast and 7-2 on Southeast. Misses on the Rockets were their victories over Fremont and Omaha Westside. I picked Southeast to win when Westside and Beatrice scored victories.

Final Score

My final score, with only two games left in the state, is 233 right, 84 wrong for a season percentage of .722. That's down from last year's .743 mark, but that's the way it goes.

I will assume that my ability has not lessened, nor my luck. Rather, the quality of football improved, which makes it tougher to predict.

That sounds nicer, anyway.

FOLLEY VICTOR EASILY

Phoenix, Ariz. (AP) — Zora Folley, the No. 2 heavyweight contender, pecked and bombed away at game Alonzo Johnson at his pleasure Wednesday night for a unanimous 10-round decision.

Folley weighed 197½ and Johnson 189½ for the bout, staged at a resort motel on a charity dinner-dance program.

Folley, using his right hand like a club against the crowding Johnson, was unmarked at the end. Johnson's left eye was swollen badly.

Folley, from Chandler, Ariz., was given a 99-93 edge by judge Joe Vosdik and a 98-94 margin by judge Jack Alpert. Referee Max Bear gave it to Folley 99-96.

Folley now has won 6 in a row. His only loss in the past 4 years was a 10-round decision in London to Henry Cooper, the British Empire champ, Oct. 14, 1958.

O'Doul May Sign Jap Mound Hero

Tokyo (AP) — Former baseball great Frank (Lefty) O'Doul arrived here and promptly said he would offer a contract to the Nankai Hawks sensational pitcher Tadashi Sugiura "if he's as good as they say he is."

"And any man who can win all 4 games in the Japan series has to be good," O'Doul stated.

Poised Fits Description Of AP Star

Athens, Ga. (AP)—Poised is the best way to describe Francis Tarkenton, Georgia's magic-making quarterback.

He proved it again Saturday when he threw a touchdown pass in the final 30 seconds to upset Auburn—using a play he made up in the huddle.

The 13-yard toss to end Bill Herron brought Georgia the 1959 Southeastern Conference football championship and won for Tarkenton National Back of the Week honors from the Associated Press.

"That's a mighty fine honor—and quite unexpected," said the 19-year-old son of an Athens minister.

Tarkenton, who has been quarterbacking 9 years going back to Athens YMCA team days, praised the Georgia line for the protection it gave him and alternate quarterback Charley Britt.

"Charley and I threw 21 times and I don't think our line let Auburn through on us once," he said.

Other Back of the Week nominees, in addition to Tarkenton, were:

Penn State's Richie Lucas, Charlie Flowers and Jake Gibbs of Mississippi, Dean Look of Michigan State, Arkansas' Lance Alworth, Skip Face of Stanford, Willie West of Oregon, Don Perkins of New Mexico, Maryland's Dale Betty, Rich Mayo of the Air Force, Joe Caldwell of Army and Illinois' Bill Brown.

Pete Williams

Pete Williams was an all state football player in Ohio.

The Nebraska sophomore, a native of Dayton, was a 3-year letterman at Chaminade High School, and was named all state and all conference in 1958.

He also was elected to the National Athleticic Society during his prep days. Pete is enrolled in Teachers College and plans to coach after graduation. His hobbies are hunting and fishing.

The 19-year-old guard stands 5-10 and weighs 180.

Charts Aren't Needed For This Week's Picks

By Will Grimsley
(AP Sports Writer)

Form charts are the same at the start or the end of the season—always unreliable—so here are the week's considered football picks.

Wisconsin 25, Minnesota 7: The Blokes from Wisconsin had a late start, but they finish like gangbusters.

Tennessee 14, Kentucky 7: Remember when the Wildcats used to upset some of Tennessee's greatest teams? Not this time.

Harvard 13, Yale 10: Ravenel is a name associated with riverboat gamblers, and Ivy League upsets.

Northwestern 20, Illinois 7: The The Wildcats make up for two costly losses.

Southern California 25, UCLA 7: The Trojans have learned football is a rough game—they just don't step on your face, they pivot.

Oklahoma 33, Iowa State 7: Coach Bud Wilkinson adds some salve to one of his worst years.

Louisiana State 18, Tulane 14: Another game steeped in tradition and unpredictable, but we like LSU at home.

Penn State 19, Pittsburgh 14: Richie Lucas outshines Ivan Toncic in a bitterly fought game.

Iowa 23, Notre Dame 18: The Fighting Irish are still a bit young to play such grown-up men.

Stanford 14, California 7: The "big game" vote goes to Stanford at home.

Southern Methodist 14, Baylor 0: Still stringing along with the Mustangs — they have to "come good."

The others:

—ROGERS TRACT SUGGESTED SITE—

Lincoln Tennis Center Is Proposed

Need for a tennis center in Lincoln has been outlined to the City Park and Recreation Board, with the Rogers Tract, 33rd and O Street, as the suggested location.

The proposal was made by the Tennis Improvement Committee of the Lincoln Tennis Club, Barry Jackman, chairman.

The report states that to "justify the expenditure of funds for a certain type of recreational activity, a program must be established which will be of benefit to a larger number of individuals."

The committee recognizes that tennis has not kept pace in Lincoln popularity, but believes that a tennis center would return prestige of the sport.

The report indicates such a center, with 8 hard-surfaced courts, would provide facilities for 800 Lincolnites each year.

Financially, the Lincoln Tennis Club is willing to assist with aid from 40 memberships, returning $1000 a year, and assistance in a drive for contributions to initiate the project.

The report also mentions the possibility of combined locker and club house facilities for both tennis and swimming at the Rogers tract.

According to the committee, there are currently in Lincoln 10 cement courts provided by the Recreation and Park department at 5 locations; 6 additional courts open to the public, at times, at the 3 Lincoln public high schools; and 7 clay courts maintained by the LTC, which have proved expensive to maintain due to weather.

Last Year's Stars Repeat As Top Grid Performers In NCC

By Paul LeBar

Forty-six performers were on the 1958 Nebraska College Conference football honor roll. Best hint of what to expect when the 1959 teams appear in the Sunday Journal and Star this week can be taken from the 39 who returned to play again this fall.

Seven first team selections were back in action. Another 7 off the second unit bade again.

Add to that list a supply of fresh talent and you've got an idea of how stiff the competition is.

It's a different story among the junior college performers, whose honor roll appears Sunday also.

Stan Stone, Scottsbluff flanker, is the only holdover from last year's 5-JC team.

Fairbury's Vern Thomsen, an end on the 1958 league team, played tackle for Peru Teachers this season.

All-conference Ray Graves of the Bombers fit in well at quarterback for Doane College in the NCC.

Leon Janovy, mountain-size tackle out of McCook, is currently on the University of Nebraska roster.

Residue from the crack in the Nebraska College Conference last week:

A Concordia spokesman: "We can't recruit . . . "First a kid has to be a Lutheran, then he has to want to teach grade school or high school . . . We have nowhere to start."

Concordia, a teachers college, is a school of the Missouri Lutheran Synod.

A Dana College athletic administrator: "My own personal opinion is that it's a shame to bust up the NCC . . . I think the conference is sound . . ."

The same official, on second thought, added "It's too big in the first place and it doesn't pay to play Kearney."

Dana and Midland are also Lutheran Church colleges but both are liberal arts schools.

Dana is affiliated with the United Evangelical Lutheran Church. Midland's ties are with the United Lutheran Church of America.

In The State College Corral

Stars twinkled on the NCC front even when the temperatures sank throughout the state last week.

Wesleyan's Gary Hofmann played one of his best contests as a collegian in 11-degree weather at Doane . . . He led his mates back from a 19-7 deficit to a 28-19 win with 117 yards rushing in 35 carries.

Sophomore Ron Barker of Doane also took to the frigid gridiron, denting Wesleyan's line for 137 yards in 29 carries and 3 touchdowns.

At Chadron Jim Schwartz and Virgil Meyer of the Eagles were veritable eskimos . . . With 3 inches of snow on the ground and the thermometer sinking from 18 to 8 degrees, Schwartz picked up 119 yards in 20 carries and Meyer 125 yards in 10 carries.

McCook's offense in the 5-JC was almost unbelievable. The Indians averaged 44.5 points in 4 outings to their opponents' 21-point total.

Thirteen performers scored for Coach Don McKillip's squad in those 4 games.

Royce Hamala of McCook and Larry Jacobson of Kearney have copped scoring titles in the 5-JC and NCC respectively.

Hamala was 3 touchdowns beyond teammates Stan Brown and LeRoy Russell.

Jacobson outdistanced Peru's Buddy Bookwalter by 8 points.

Extensionists Urged To Place More Emphasis On Agri-Business

The Agricultureal Extension Service needs to put more emphasis on working the agri-business firms which service agriculture.

Dr. C. B. Ratchford, director of the Agricultural Extension Service at the University of Missouri, Columbia, Mo., made the statement here Wednesday at the 45th annual Agricultural Extension Service Conference at the University of Nebraska.

"Agri-business includes those firms that provide farm supplies as well as those that market agricultural products. Over the nation, two million agri-business firms employ 24 million people adding $75 billion to the economy," Dr. Ratchford said.

"This industry will grow in the future as new functions are taken over by industry such as custom application of fertilizer and insecticides as well as selling crops in the field."

"Agri-business is a new industry. At the time Extension work was started, farmers performed most of the function now done by industry. Increased specialization on farms has resulted in the development of agri-business firms to serve the farmer," he said.

The rural community should accept long-range, comprehensive planning as a way of life, delegates were told.

Lee Fettig, community planning specialist for Northern Natural Gas Co., Omaha, said many rural communities' development programs have been doomed to failure before they really get underway because the community did not know where to begin.

The trend toward larger urban populations has progressed to the point that some predictions indicate as high as 97% of all the population increase in the next two decades will be in urban communities. These are considered areas with more than 2,500 population, Fettig explained.

The goal of rural development programs is to attain the highest possible level of living for all people, no matter what their occupation or profession or place of residence, he said.

Area development involving all segments of the economy — includes efforts to create and increase employment opportunities outside agriculture, Fettig explained.

The Extension Service workers paid special tribute to Ed Schultz, secretary of the Nebraska State Fair, who was named honoree of the year by the group.

Toledo's Test Of Downtown Malls Ends This Weekend

Toledo, Ohio (AP) — Toledo's test of 4 downtown shoppers' malls which aroused widespread interest, comes to an end this weekend. Whether permanent malls will be established still is being debated.

Workmen will begin removing the malls at midnight Friday and expect to have the 4 blocks — two on Madison Avenue and two on Adams Street — ready for vehicular traffic by Monday.

Cars, trucks and buses haven't rolled over those blocks since last Aug. 3.

The test, twice extended past its original 45-day schedule, has been under the scrutiny of downtown planners from throughout the United States and even abroad.

Lure For Trade

Its aim was to determine whether pedestrian malls in the heart of a city business district can lure retail trade from shopping centers in the outskirts.

The test was clouded somewhat by one of the hottest weather spells on record here and by the steel strike which had an adverse affect on some Toledo industry, and thus on the movement of the shopper's dollar.

Surveys early during the test period indicated most merchants on the malls felt they had helped business but would have been more effective had low cost parking been provided, too.

Master Plan

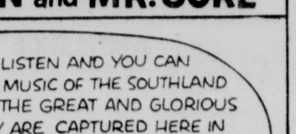

The malls technical committee decided to recommend that a downtown master plan, which would include permanent malls, be accepted by City Council. Plan Director Lawrence Murray estimated permanent malls would cost about $108,000 per block.

Ahead lie questions about how such malls would be financed and what would be involved in providing shoppers with quick and cheap places to park.

Would Devour Magazine

Internationally acclaimed fashion designer Pauline Trigere says, "The new, December issue of McCall's is so fabulous that I want to eat every page. And the pages I don't eat, I want to frame."

Tekamah Woman President-Elect Home Agents

Miss Houtz Assumes Group's Reign

Mrs. Beulah Hargleroad of Tekamah was chosen president-elect Wednesday night of the Nebraska Home Agents Assn., in connection with the 45th annual Agricultural Extension Service Conference under way at the University of Nebraska.

Taking over her duties as president was Clara Houtz of Hebron, who will serve in that capacity for the coming year.

Other officers include Mrs. Tracy Van Camp of Kearney, vice president; Frances Runty, of Lincoln, secretary; Esther Kreifels of Scottsbluff, publicity chairman and director; and Mrs. Pearl Linde of Albion, director.

Hardin Cites Change

Earlier, Dr. Clifford M. Hardin, chancellor of the University, in an address to those attending the conference pointed out that agricultural communities are changing—in fact, changing at a frightening rate. The Agricultural Extension Service must change, too, he warned, and change rapidly if it is to remain fully effective.

"Many teaching techniques that have been used successfully in the past are now out of date. New ones must be developed," the chancellor declared.

Dr. Hardin reminded county extension agents that they represent the entire University in their communities. Therefore, it is important for them to be acquainted with new developments throughout the institution.

He stressed that the University's greatest need now is for deepening of present programs. The maintenance and development of a quality staff continues to be the foremost objective, he added.

The Extension conference continues through Thursday with a series of subject matter discussions and guest speakers. Members of the Ag and Home Agents Assns. will hold their annual banquets Thursday night.

Work On Missile Bases Proceeding 'At A Good Pace'

Omaha (AP) — The Army Engineers' chief of military construction said work on missile bases at Mead, Arlington and Missouri Valley, Iowa, is proceeding at a good pace.

Brig. Gen. Clarence Renshaw of Washington toured the sites and then commented that the work was impressive. Construction, he said, must continue through the winter and work so far appears to have set up the winter program satisfactorily.

Ainsworth 'Start' Under Consideration

Washington (AP)—The Interior Department wants money included in the federal budget for next year to begin work on new reclamation projects.

Secretary Fred A. Seaton in disclosing this Wednesday told a news conference he could not give out a list of the projects. All he would say was "we are recommending appropriate specific new starts."

Final decision on what will be in the budget for the fiscal year beginning next July 1 rests with President Eisenhower.

Under questioning Seaton did say the Ainsworth (Neb) project, for which construction money was voted for the last fiscal year, and then omitted for this year, is under consideration for new construction funds.

Query On Quiz Program Rigging Irritates Price

Omaha (AP)—When a reporter mentioned the television quiz program rigging to Vincent Price Wednesday, the author-actor snapped: "I came here as a guest, not a quiz kid."

Price, who had arrived at Municipal Airport, walked away to claim his baggage but when reporters reached him again, he explained:

"I've spent 25 years trying to propagate art. And all people know of me is that I was on a quiz show."

In a more talkative mood, he said: "Americans are still the biggest snobs in the world.

"They go to Europe for their culture and it's right under their feet—right in Omaha. Why they know nothing about the American Indian or the West."

Price was here for a lecture to members of the Society of Liberal Arts.

Even Natural Law Recognizes Danger Of Obscenity, Declares Judge O'Brien

Omaha (AP) —Omaha Municipal Judge James P. O'Brien declared Wednesday that even if there were no civil laws regulating obscene publications man can recognize certain dangers to his moral welfare "solely by the operation of natural law."

"The fundamental precept of the natural law is: man must live in accordance with his rational nature, so as to do good and avoid evil," he said. "Therefore man—and I mean every man—recognizes those actions which are right and those actions which are wrong."

He declared this natural law, which the Roman and Angio-American legal systems follow as to methods for change "binds all men at all times, even though in a given case, the civil law does not prohibit certain books or publications, but the reader finds it dangerous to himself. . . ."

Judge O'Brien's comments were made during a discussion of local legislation before the Postal Operations subcommittee of the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee investigating obscenity.

The judge declared the argument mostly used against laws enacted by the people to protect society against what is indecent and immoral is that these laws are vague." He cited U.S. Supreme Court opinions which he said make the concept of the term 'obscene' a reasonable and ascertainable norm for criminal guilt."

An acceptable definition for obscenity which might be uniformly applied in the courts is one of the objectives announced by the House committee.

Judge O'Brien was one of 7 witnesses appearing before the subcommittee, headed by Rep. Kathryn E. Graham (D-Pa). Other members are Reps. Glenn Cunningham (R-Neb) James C. Oliver (D-Maine) and George Shipley (D-Ill).

'County Attorneys' Job'

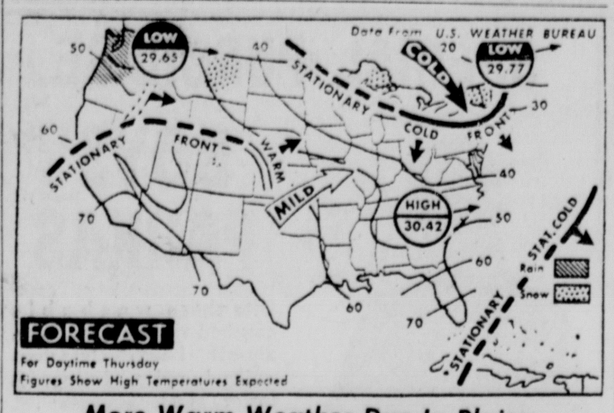

Nebraska Atty. Gen. C. S. Beck told the committee that the primary effort in enforcement of obscenity laws must be made by county attorneys.

"The attorney general is not a boss," he said. In response to questions Beck said he did not agree with the statutory view that the dominant theme of a publication must be obscene in order to have the publication so judged. One or two obscene paragraphs is enough, he said.

Beck's testimony dealt almost entirely with Nebraska laws. He said he had been very gratified to receive many postcards from individuals urging him to participate in this hearing once the hearing was scheduled.

Another committee witness was Iowa Attorney General Norman Erbe, who has been pushing a statewide campaign against obscene publications in Iowa. Recently Erbe listed 42 magazines which he said appeared to violate the Iowa obscenity law and subsequently was named defendant in a damage suit brought by publishers of 22 of the magazines.

Other witnesses before the committee included Mrs. E. J. Roberts of Omaha, legislative chairman of the Nebraska P.T.A. Congress and representatives of several Omaha groups. The hearing concluded Wednesday.

More Warm Weather Due In Plains

A few snow flurries in the extreme northern Atlantic Coastal states are expected Thursday. A few snow flurries also are indicated for the northern Rockies. Some rain may fall in the northern Pacific coastal areas. It will be warmer east of the Mississippi to the Atlantic Coast. Warmer weather also is forecast for the central and southern Plains. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Pacifists Get Prison Terms

Omaha (AP) — Three self-acknowledged pacifists Wednesday were [illegible] to 6 months in a federal correctional institution and fined $500 and costs.

The 3 are Neil Haworth, 28, Chicago, Hiram C. Holdridge, 19, Evanston, Ill., and Larry Shumm, 19, Seattle, Wash.

Chief Federal District Judge Richard E. Robinson asked each of the pacifists individually if he would stay away from all military bases and establishments during the time of any probation he might grant them. The men replied they could not do so.

The judge then pronounced sentence.

Defense Attorney Francis Heisler said that he intended to appeal the decision and in a conference with the judge in his chambers succeeded in having bonds reduced from $2,500 to $1,500 each.

DELAPLANE'S POSTCARD

This is Children's National Book Week. If you want to do something nice for your child, buy him a book. Buy him MY book—that would be nice for both of us.

I made a great mistake on my book. I did not thank enough people.

Lately I have been looking over the new books and man! Are these authors grateful.

I did not thank anybody for helping me with my book. Nobody helped me.

My own tots did not come to me with brimming eyes, declaring:

"Daddy, let me write a paragraph or so. For truly, you look about done in."

No, sir. They said: "When will you be through so you can help me with my homework?"

The neighbors—if I said I was working on a book. Well, most neighbors think you are in a different dodge altogether. They do not believe it takes much time.

"Oh, you can do that tomorrow. Come on over. We're having a WONDERFUL party!"

That is a siren song I found hard to resist. And this book nearly never got written.

Well, authors should not be like that. They should be grateful. Grateful and humble.

"This poor effort would not be compelte unless I mentioned the unflagging and generous help of my publisher . . ."

("It may sell," said my publisher gloomily. "But you really oughta try some crime stuff or something.")

Authors generally thank all their relatives. All my relatives wrote to me: "When you gonna send us a free copy of your book?"

It is customary to thank the librarian:

"I should take occasion to mention the aid given me by Miss Snively whose intelligent research etc."

☆ ☆ ☆

I suppose it is too late now. But I guess I should thank a few people.

"I wish to express my grateful acknowledgment to Mr. Franc Shor, my colleague and editor of National Geographic magazine . . ."

That is one I forgot. My publisher wanted to call this book, "The Little World of Stanton Delaplane."

"I've got a better one," said Shor. "Call it 'The World of Little Stanton Delaplane'."

I sent that idea along to the publisher and he got huffy and said I wasn't taking the whole project seriously.

If he HAD used that title, think what, a great book we would have today for Children's National Book Week. Thank you.

California 'Badman,' 19, Breaks Down And Cries

. . . In Telling How He Killed Policeman

Redwood City, Calif. (AP)—A 19-year-old boy who turned thief because "I wanted to be a big shot" broke down and cried like a baby Wednesday while telling newsmen how he killed a policeman who stopped him on a lonely road in a stolen car.

Alexander Robillard's guilty plea leaves only the punishment to be determined for the Aug. 5 slaying of Hollsborough officer Gene Doran.

The youth said Doran's first radio check with headquarters was negative on whether the car was stolen and Doran had started to walk back to his patrol car.

Then a woman's voice came in over the San Bruno police radio saying, "Just hang on; it may be hot."

Doran told Robillard he was going to search him.

"I had that damned gun (a stolen .32 gold-plated special) in my pocket," Robillard said.

"I couldn't see a way I could throw it over the bank or anything. I don't know. I didn't think. I reached in my pocket real fast and then he (Doran) drew his gun. The next thing I knew, I was just standing there clicking the gun."

3 Teenagers Injured In 24th St. Accident

Three Lincoln teenagers were injured slightly Wednesday in an accident on 4th between Garfield and Washington.

Jane R. Lomax, 16, of 1810 Pepper, and Kathy Kline, 16, of 1836 So. 36th, suffered minor bruises and Joyce Lathman, 15, of 1648 So. 24th, suffered a cut over her left eye.

The 3 were injured when a car driven by Miss Lomax struck a car owned by William Heidelmann of 1529 So. 24th that was parked on 24th.

Demo Hanson Scores GOP Farm Claims

"The mumbo-jumbo which so-called Republican leaders have been mouthing about the Eisenhower-Benson farm program here in Nebraska during the past several days has fooled no one," Democratic State Chairman Russell Hanson of Newcastle said Wednesday night.

"The GOP has yet to come up with any farm program which is more than a collection of words strung together by Madison Avenue public relations men, much less a program with any reasonable chance of working," Hanson said in a prepared release.

"In spite of the words of our Republican leaders from such great farm states as Florida, the Nebraska farmer is watching prices skyrocket for his supplies under the Eisenhower administration which promised to end inflation while at the same time seeing his own income decrease 5 times more rapidly than at any time under Roosevelt or Truman."

Hanson's statement was obviously aimed at remarks made in Nebraska by Republican national assistant chairman Mrs. Clare Williams of St. Petersburg, Fla., who was in Lincoln Wednesday.

Hanson noted that Nebraska Democrats are enthused over a number of coming events including the Second Congressional District workshop scheduled for Omaha Dec. 12, featuring Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota.

Former President Harry Truman and Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri will headline the 1960 Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner in Omaha next April, and the 1960 Democratic Midwest Conference is tentatively slated for Nebraska next fall.

Delores M. Hedges, 19 of 2541 N, suffered minor bruises Wednesday as the result of a car-pedestrian accident at 25th and O.

The accident occurred when a car driven by Bobby L. Furse, 25, of Oak Park Trailer Court was making a left turn onto O as Miss Hedges was crossing the street.

A Pink Cophouse? Lawmen Awaiting Woman's Choice

The refinishing project at the Lincoln Police offices will have a woman's touch, according to Chief Joe Carroll.

Carroll said that Policewoman Hulda Roper decided upon the color scheme. The painting is scheduled to start in the next few days.

And what about the colors? "I'm not quite sure what colors we will use . . . it will be a surprise," Carroll added.

Methodist Youth To Attend Annual Conference Here

Methodist students from every Nebraska college will attend the annual state Methodist Student Movement Conference this weekend on Wesleyan University campus and at First Methodist Church.

The theme of the conference, "The Mission of the Church in the World," will be presented in 3 addresses by Dr. Merril Abbey, professor of preaching at Garrett Biblical Institute, Evanston, Ill.

According to the Rev. J. Benton White, associate director of the Wesley Foundation at the University of Nebraska and dean of the conference, registration will begin at 4 p.m. Friday and the conference will close with a Communion service at 7 p.m. Saturday.

Lincolnite Says Guilty To Grand Larceny Charge

A guilty plea on charges of grand larceny was entered in County Court Wednesday by Donald Stacy, 37, of 2945 Starr.

Stacy was one of two men arrested in connection with the theft of 3 shotguns and a coat from Gold & Co. department store Oct. 29.

Stacy waived preliminary hearing and was bound over to District Court by Acting County Judge Ralph Slocum on bond of $2,500.

Scout Camp To Get New Swim Pool

Boy Scouts from the Cornhusker Council who attend camp at Humboldt next summer won't be swimming in the "old swimming hole."

These scouts will instead splash in a $20,000 swimming pool, which the Cornhusker Council expects to have completed in May. Bids for construction of the 40 by 80 foot pool are now being sought, council officials said, with awarding of the contract set for Dec. 1.

Decision to build the pool was made at a Lincoln meeting of council officials, who were told that the State Health Dept. has called a halt to swimming in the pond previously used at the camp.

Funds to finance the pool will be raised by a special campaign throughout the Cornhusker Council area in southeast Nebraska, and will require the approval of Community Chests in many towns.

As a result of adding the pool to camp facilities, the 5-week camping period may be expanded to include all summer months, Scout officials said.

In other council business, Dean Petersen of Lincoln said the finance committee's goal of $86,000 for the council will probably lack about $5,000 of being underwritten by Community Chest and individual Scout drives.

Frank Sorrell of Syracuse presented admiralships in the Nebraska Navy to 14 chairmen of successful drives in various communities.

Receiver Naming For Lincoln Firm Denied By Judge

Two firms who allege to be creditors of Tad's Enterprises Inc. of Lincoln were denied a request for appointment of a receiver by District Judge Harry Ankeny.

KOOO, Omaha radio station, and Colonial Felt Mills of Minnesota had alleged that the Lincoln company, headed by Earle M. Burnett Jr., was insolvent.

Judge Ankeny ruled that no cause of action was stated by the two firms in their request, and that no notice of the request was made to all parties affected.

Yuletide Mailing: 'Get Going Early,' Says Post Office

Help yourself — shop and mail early.

That's the suggestion of Lincoln Postmaster O. E. Jerner as he and his employes start planning for what they expect to be the largest Christmas mailing in the history of the Lincoln Post Office.

"Every facility of the Lincoln Post Office will be pressed into maximum service," Jerner promised, "so that again this year, as in the past, the office will be cleared, if possible, of all Christmas mail by Christmas."

"By following the simple suggestions of mailing early, wrapping carefully and addressing plainly," Jerner noted, "the citizens of Lincoln will be assured of the safe and timely arrival of their Christmas mail."

FORESTS SET AFIRE

. . . By Kilauea Volcano

Honolulu (AP)—Kilauea Volcano Wednesday spouted liquid fire 750 feet into the air and set nearby forests afire with falling lava. The forest fires were put out before they spread.

The volcano increased activity on its fifth day of eruption.

Tuesday night the glow of the fires could be seen for 30 miles.

The lava lake at the lower end of the crater floor was 75 feet deep and rising about two feet an hour.

Scientists declined to predict just what's ahead. They said, however, the earth tremors are growing stronger and another eruption is possible.

Beef Performance Testing Program Announced Here

Inauguration of a beef performance testing program for registered Red Poll cattle was announced by the Red Poll Cattle Club of America.

The club which has its national offices in Lincoln, will start the program Jan. 1 with a "gain register," to record gains from birth to weaning age.

Wendell Severin of Lincoln, national secretary, said plans call for two other registers to be added later as breeders become more familiar with the program.

The additional registers will measure feeding efficiency and evaluate carcasses.

The project is aimed at faster herd improvement and the production of cattle that meet consumer beef requirements, Severin said.

STOCKS ADVANCE

New York (AP) — Wall Street hopes of a negotiated steel settlement swept the stock market higher on a broad front Wednesday.

Based on the rise in the Associated Press average, the advance added an estimated three billion dollars to the quoted value of all stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange. It was the best since Oct. 23. What's more, the firm tone underlying the market was a more convincing end to the recent string of declines than Tuesday's slight gain.

Gains in steels ran around 3 points and more. Gains by steel-starved automobile builders were as high as 2 points and rails showed frequent gains of better than a point on hopes of increased carloadings.

Broker sentiment looking toward steel peace was based in part on a report by Iron Age magazine that any voluntary agreement between industry and union negotiators would be a non-inflationary three-year pact.

Rails also are expected to benefit from Thursday's carloadings report, which is expected to show a good increase in traffic with steel operations stepping higher.

Analysts also hailed statistics showing that 655 of the 1,227 stocks traded advanced, while 263 declined.

The AP 60-stock average rose $2.30 to $221.20 with industrials up $3.10, rails up $3 and utilities up 50 cents. The average also gained $2.30 on Oct. 23.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 6.37 to 641.99.

Trading rose to 3,660,000 shares from 3,570,000 Tuesday.

Scattered profit taking chipped away some gains near the close, but virtually every major group ended with plus signs. Aircrafts and electronics were spotty, however.

American Stock Exchange prices were mostly higher on volume of 1,460,000 compared with 1,360,000 Tuesday.

Government bonds closed mixed.

Trading amounted to $7,640,000 par value on the Big Board compared with $7,990,000 Tuesday.

Seaton Staying In Present Job, Despite Rumors

Washington (AP) — Secretary of Interior Fred A. Seaton said Wednesday he expects to stay on in his present job through the Eisenhower administration.

Asked about reports he might run for governor of Nebraska, or be named secretary of defense or resign, Seaton told a news conference:

"I've got a job to finish here and as long as the President leaves me in it I expect to carry out my commitment."

He said that when he took the appointment as secretary of the interior it was implied that he was wanted until the President's term expires in January, 1961.

As for the various rumors, Seaton commented that "I've been moved more and resettled less than anybody else in this administration."

Grains Show Little Change

Chicago (AP)—The grain futures market worked up some firmness in spots Wednesday but it appeared to be linked mainly with shifting of technical trade positions rather than any commercial demand.

Except for December oats which moved up about a cent on scattered processor buying and short covering nearly all price changes were within minor fractions of a cent.

Soybeans showed some tendency toward firmness at times on a moderate flurry which apparently included buying to reinstate long positions that had been sold during the setbacks late last week.

It was the final day of trading in November soybeans and it ended surprisingly steady. Closing transactions were limited to price spreads of less than a cent.

Wheat was ⅜ cent a bushel lower to ¾ higher at the close, December $2.00⅜-¾; corn unchanged to ⅛ lower, December $1.12½; oats ¼-1⅛ higher, December 78¼-⅜; rye unchanged to ½ higher, December $1.33; soybeans ½

Cochran: Funds To Change

$2.7 Million Will Not Be Returned To Lincoln-GI

By Betty Person

The $2.7 million in Interstate funds originally tabbed for the Lincoln to Grand Island segment of the highway will be diverted to Omaha, State Engineer R. L. Cochran said Wednesday.

Several groups, including the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce, had asked Gov. Ralph Brooks to hold back the funds for planning and right-of-way buying along the Lincoln to Grand Island stretch of the highway.

These requests followed the governor's decision to "hold in abeyance" $800,000 of the funds for Lincoln's city route on condition that the State Highway Department and Lincoln are ready to begin buying right-of-way on that route by June 1.

Right-Of-Way

Cochran said Wednesday the $2.7 million would be used in Omaha for right-of-way acquisition under the program announced and approved by the state.

Under this program the state has earmarked $600,000 in planning and land purchase funds which will be used for the Interstate segment from Lincoln west to the Milford Corner.

Meanwhile, the Legislative and Highway Transportation Committees of the York Chamber of Commerce met Wednesday afternoon to discuss restoration of Interstate funds made to Lincoln this week and their interest in Lincoln to Grand Island funds.

The York Chamber plans to send a resolution to Gov. Brooks asking restoration of Lincoln-Grand Island funds and expressing belief that the Interstate should continue to the Third City.

The board of directors of the Grand Island Chamber of Commerce has scheduled a meeting for next Tuesday to make a study of the Interstate relative to the Lincoln-Grand Island segment.

Shortened Program

Buenos Aires (AP)—Soviet delegates who hoped to read 30 papers at an Anarctic symposium here may present only one. That is the one Mikhail Somov, scientist and explorer, brought with him. The Russians say the rest apparently have been lost in the mail from Moscow.

Most State School Leaders OK Loyalty Oath In Federal Loan Setup

By Walt Switzer

Withdrawal from the federal student loan program by Yale and Harvard Universities because of the loyalty oath requirement gained only scattered support from Nebraska college presidents.

Although a few voiced objection to the loyalty oath requirement it is not likely that any school in the state will junk the program.

Typical of the comment from college heads was a statement by William A. Brandenberg, president of Wayne College, who said:

"We mean to continue in the loan program under the loyalty oath provision."

Barton Kline, Chadron College president noted that, "teachers in the state are required to sign loyalty oaths and I see no reason why students shouldn't."

"Students at Chadron have had no objection to the provision," Kline added.

The affidavit under fire calls for a statement by students applying for federal education loans that the applicant does not believe in, belong to, or support "any organization that believes in or teaches the overthrow of the United States government by force or violence or by any illegal or unconstitutional means."

Disapproval of the loyalty requirement was echoed by Dr. Donald Typer, president of Doane College at Crete.

Dr. Typer said, "I am in sympathy with the students at Harvard and Yale and I would like to see the oath requirement removed or else required from other groups who also receive federal aid."

He pointed out that loans to farmers, veterans and businessmen made by the governmnt require no loyalty oath.

"We recognize that the federal government is inconsistent in insisting that students be required to take this oath and sign the affidavit," Dr. Vance Rogers, president of Wesleyan University said, "since it is a requirement not made of other citizens who receive federal assistance."

'No Discrimination'

Dr. Rogers indicated that at the time the school decided to enter the loan program the problem was discussed by the board of trustees and it was decided that "we must not discriminate against any student who comes to this campus.

"We are prepared to stand by that decision and honor all requirements of the U.S. government," Dr. Rogers said.

Also offering support of the loan program were Dean Adam Breckenridge, University of Nebraska dean of faculties, and Dr. Neal Gomon, president of Peru College.

Breckenridge said the University is "loaning money in compliance with the law and will continue to do so."

Dr. Gomon noted that since all state employes are required to take a loyalty oath it shouldn't be objectionable to students.

SAFETY TALKERS FOR HASTINGS

Midwest Safety Leader Commends Nebraska, Brooks For Campaign

Nebraska and Gov. Ralph G. Brooks were commended on the traffic safety campaign underway in the state by Hal Kent, Midwest regional director of the National Safety Council from Des Moines, Ia.

While meeting in Lincoln Wednesday with officials to plan the Central Nebraska regional safety conference in Hastings Thursday, Kent said, "The effects of Gov. Brooks' "stop accidents" campaign are now bearing fruit. Less than 2 months ago Nebraska was 8% worse than in 1958 in highway fatalities. Today, happily, it is some 2% better."

Kent pointed out that the national scene is "brightening."

"For the first 9 months of this year, the country was 5% worse than 1958, and it looked as though we were heading toward 40,000 deaths . . . I am glad to say Nebraska is among the leaders in reversing the trend."

Lincoln's role in traffic safety, which placed 3rd of 58 cities in its population group in the latest National Safety Council ratings, will be featured at the Hastings meeting.
